Udall Introduces Bill To Improve Irrigation & Flood Control In SW CO

In a Press Release sent to the Drum, on June 15, 2009, United States Senator, Mark Udall introduced a Bill in Washington, D.C. that would help the Southern Ute Tribe assess needs and make repairs to Pine River Indian Irrigation Project thus ensuring water supply needs. What follows is the official press release and remarks by Senator Udall for Congressional Record.

Washington, D.C. – Today (June 15, 2009), U.S. Senator Mark Udall introduced a bill that would make much-needed and long-deferred repairs to the Pine River Indian Irrigation Project, ensuring that the Southern Ute Indian Tribe and other Southwestern Colorado residents have access to adequate water supplies.

The Pine River Indian Irrigation Project was first created by Congress in 1936 to provide water for over 63,000 acres of land in Southwest Colorado, protecting the region from spring floods and summer droughts. Today, the demand and need for a quality water delivery system has never been greater, yet the Pine River Irrigation Project hasn't been able to keep up. The Government Accountability Office has declared the project severely deteriorated because of neglect and lack of funding.

Senator Udall's Pine River Indian Irrigation Act of 2009 would help the community rebuild the infrastructure and again provide adequate water to the region. It is co-sponsored by Colorado's junior Senator Michael Bennet.

"Years of neglect by the federal government have taken their toll on the Pine River Indian Irrigation Project. Serious leaks and deferred maintenance now threaten the safety and supply of water to the region – as well as the Southern Ute Tribe's ability to control the use of their land," Senator Udall said. "I'm introducing the Pine River Indian Irrigation Act to make sure the federal government fulfills its responsibility and ensures both Indian and non-Indian residents have access to the water they need when they need it."

Senator Udall's bill would direct the Interior Secretary, acting through the Commissioner of Reclamation, to fully assess the needs of the Pine River Indian Irrigation Project. It would also grant the authority to the Secretary to provide grants to and enter into cooperative agreements with the Southern Ute Indian Tribe of Colorado to assess and repair infrastructure so that the project more suitably meets user needs.

The following are Senator Udall's full remarks as submitted for the Congressional Record:

Mr. President, today I introduced a bill that seeks to rehabilitate an important irrigation and flood control system that is vital to serving the agricultural and flood protection needs in Southwestern Colorado.

More than 100 years ago, both Indian and non-Indian communities utilized the water from the Pine River to irrigate areas of Southwest Colorado. As the population and local agriculture grew, so did the need for more advanced infrastructure. In 1936, the Pine River Indian Irrigation Project was authorized by Congress in the Department of Interior Appropriation Act, and in 1937 the Project grew the system's capacity to provide water for over 63,000 acres of land. The development of this project provided much needed protection for crops and communities from spring floods and summer drought.

Today, similar forces of population growth and a steady demand for irrigated water are exacerbated by aging and deteriorating infrastructure, creating a need for a stronger system. The Government Accountability Office has found the deterioration of key project facilities to be severe. As deferred maintenance and upkeep mount, there is a growing threat to water conservation efforts, a reliable water supply, growth in agricultural production, economic sustainability, a safe community, and, equally important, the preservation of culture and livelihood of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe. Though the Southern Ute Tribe and others who live along the Pine River understand the hazards presented by aging infrastructure, more needs to be done to comprehend the full extent of these hazards.

As a result of failed structures, leaks in the system, overdue maintenance, and inadequate funding, tribal members who would like to bring idle lands back into agricultural production and continue as good stewards of the land cannot be sure if much-needed water will get to their lands. Now, the estimated costs to rehabilitate the system far exceed the ability of water users to pay for improvements while managing profitable operations.

The Pine River Indian Irrigation Project Act of 2009 would fix decades of neglect and inadequate funding for the Pine River Indian Irrigation Project. This legislation would direct the Secretary of the Interior, acting through the Commissioner of Reclamation, to fully assess the needs of the Pine River Indian Irrigation Project. It would also grant the authority to the Secretary of the Interior to provide grants to, and enter into cooperative agreements with the Southern Ute Indian Tribe of Colorado to assess and repair infrastructure so that it more suitably meets user needs.

The funding that would be provided in this bill is an essential step toward assuring that both Indians and non-Indians have access to the water they need, when they need it. I look forward to working with my colleagues to move this bill toward passage.

“Thank-You” For The Blessings Of Bear Dance

By “tiny” Lisa Gray-Garcia POOR Magazine

The color of nature is much larger than mere words. Like many of the Creator's gifts on mother earth – words alone cant begin to describe the poetry, art, and spirit of our beautiful lands, Since I returned this week from a journey to Southern Ute Indian Reservation to attend the Bear Dance, I have been struck with a calm silence. When I think about writing, which as a self-described, revolutionary journalist and poet I am inclined to do; my brain and heart remain in prayer, uninterested in producing mere words.

As a traveler to the sacred land of the Southern Ute Bear Dance, hosted by POOR's indigenous peoples media coordinator, Mari Villaluna, I was not there as a writer, or tourist, but as a sister indigenous Taina (The Taino people are indigenous peoples from Puerto Rico) guest celebrating the gifts of spring through a dance brought to the Utes by a she-bear many, many moons ago So for this gift of shared ceremony, music and dance, I feel I must craft some words to gift back to the land and its peoples, the Southern Utes.

Our Journey By Car...

After wayyyyy too much packing of this diva's belongings, and then the subsequent stuffing into a wayyy too small rented car, myself, my five year old son and three fellow staff writers and family members at POOR Magazine embarked from San Francisco, California on a journey by car on May 21st to Ignacio, Colorado. (POOR Magazine is an indigenous people led, non-profit , grassroots, arts organization dedicated to providing media access, education and advocacy to communities of color in poverty locally and globally.)

“I love mother earth”, said my son, Tiburcio as he began a series of drawings he did for the journey. In addition to my beautiful son our tiny car included the intergenerational cru of Phil Adams, staff writer and adminiskollah at POOR, Ruyata (RAM) Mcglothlin, Poverty scholar, POOR Press author and member of the Po Poets of POOR Magazine, Joseph Bolden, elder poverty scholar and founding member of POOR and me, poverty scholar, daughter of mama dee and mama of tiburcio. We were all on this journey for many reasons, for me it was a spirit journey for my mama dee, an indigenous Taina elder who passed to the other side in March of 2006 and whose birthday fell right on the week of our journey.

My mama dee, an orphan who had suffered through countless abusive foster homes and had managed by any means necessary to survive and get her education only to be shot down by the struggle of being a poor woman of color in the Amerikkka, even-

'BearDance' in the rain From the end until the start Too bad on Tiny's birthday we must depart All great things must come to an end I built so family ties here, much more than friends Sky still lovely, multi-colored clouds Thunder in the distance, sound so loud Flowing river waters threw the whole town Colorado boulders that be surrounding Earth colored gente (people)'BearDancing' getting down Music filled air of screaming eagles Horses, cows, dogs, sheep, elk, eagles Goats, crops, pastures, slops Stretches of land, black Mex-Indians R.V.'s, trucks, Palomas (doves), ducks Tractors on grass under construct Salmon, creeks, buffalo meat Roads, highways, dirt covered streets They showed up on every scene Only and the one POOR MAGAZINE ...A poem for Bear Dance by RAM which works to restore families in struggle rather than separate them.

That afternoon we returned to the Bear Dance corral to hear the deep sounds of the multigenerational group of growlers, led collectively but with direction by the calm focus of Tribal Chairman, and Bear Dance Chief Mathew Box- son of Betty and Eddie Box, native elders who met us with smiles and love at the entrance of the corral and cat-man extraordinaire Kenny Frost-who kept us all in line, literally and figuratively.

tually became unable to work and when I was 11 years old we became houseless on the streets of Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Me and my mama stayed together and I became her sole caregiver through years of disability, poverty and homelessness and from this struggle and later gifts of consciousness we received from elders like Angela Davis, Velia Garcia and Jose Cueller through teachings in Ethnic Studies and Womens Studies at San Francisco State University and we launched POOR Magazine in 1996 I owe all of my gifts of tenacity, artistry, caregiving and visionary thinking to my Mama dee, for without her there would be no me.

I have done a ceremony each year on her birthday since she passed. This year we both enjoyed the blessings of the Ute Bear Dance.

Our Arrival...

Early Friday morning our damp, confused party arrived to a rain-filled sky in Ignacio Beginning with our groups witnessing of the four directions blessing by Tribal elders of the Bear Dance corral, our own collective offering of tobacco for the corral we proceeded to the Leonard C. Burch Building to meet with Robert Ortiz from the

And then we received one of our most beautiful gifts. Due to a sky that threatened rain, the small group of POOR Magazine folks were the only ones dancing in the corral on Friday afternoon. We held each other's hands and prayed to our elders and the creator for giving us this day of beauty, song and dance. We prayed for the spirit of Mama Dee and Uncle Al Robles and the strength to come forth with the power of our revolution and change manifesto.

The Final Day...

After three days straight of Bear Dance the final day seemed to come to soon. The sun shined bright. Aromas of fry bread and fresh lemonade filled the air, mixing with the soft wind and brown dirt kicked up by all the beautiful dancers. The final day of Bear Dance was made complete with one of the best buffalo stews I have ever eaten (of course, this is the only buffalo stew I have ever eaten!?)

The silence of nature's prayer began to take hold on the beautiful drive home. Consumed by Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona sky-lines and endless plains of burnt brown and orange, we were all humbled, I perhaps more than the others, because I haven't traveled many places in my life and never this way by car. I was left with the following poem.

The Journey (Poetry) Home Mountains with faces Rocks peel chards of time Deep blue, blood orange cover sky Speaking stories of silenced struggle Landless people Becoming landed Groundless people Becoming grounded US government lies transformed into What we turn into But the sky will save us The soft wind will change us And the day becomes night and our small car becomes a kite to fly Away into the hearts of our ancestors Thank-you to the Utes for the blessings, the prayers and your time

Thank You from Our Sister's Keeper

We wish to thank each and every person who helped us have a successful Sexual Assault Awareness Month. Without you, this would not have been possible. Together, we have broken the Silence that Violence against Native American Women and Children is not our Native Way.. We have began the healing and creating a safe community.

Fourth Annual Mountain Spirit Campout, Logo Contest

Deadline for submissions is July 17, 2009! Logo Guidelines: The Mountain Spirit committee is requesting an image that represents the spirit of recovery and is colorful and graphically appealing. You must use a visible, original image (no clipart, please). The image will be used on large and small posters and possibly used on tshirts. Image should include the following year, date, and location: 4th Annual Mountain Spirit Campout, August 14-16, 2009, Lake Capote. Include colors! A maximum of four colors may be used in the design INCLUDING BLACK & WHITE! You can use one color as a background. Solid colors only; NO water color, gradients or air-brush. Those techniques look wonderful, but they are too costly to reproduce on shirts, posters, etc.

- Image must reproduce well in black and white.
- Lettering must be identifiable and easy to read.
- No electronic submissions, we ask that you send your entry on paper.
- All entries, images and artwork become the exclusive property of the Mountain Spirit Committee.

The Mountain Spirit Committee reserves the right to reject any and all entries, and to request reasonable, minor design modifications from the proposed winner. Following the steps will allow you to properly prepare your artwork and save lots of time doing so. Have fun creating! Contact Elaine Newton at (970) 563-0240 with any questions. Send your artwork to: Elaine Newton, PO Box 737, Ignacio, CO, 81137.

(UMU) and coincided with the first day of the Ute Bear Dance. The Lieutenant Governor Barbara O’Brien chaired the meeting and actively took part in the first dance to start the Bear Dance. Among the participants were Ute Leaders from the three Tribes, Colorado representatives, and the youth of the Ute Tribe.

The meeting brought about many issues, concerns and updates from the two Ute Tribes, of these highlights from the meeting will be summarized here.

Southern Ute Chairman, Matthew Box began by giving an update of the new Southern Ute Cultural Center and Museum saying, “my Elders are not here, but we are all happy to see the foundations being built.” Chairman Box also pointed out how pleased the Southern Ute Tribe is in the Government, helping fund Bayfield’s efforts in cleaning up their wastewater issues concerning the Pine River. SU Councilwoman, Barbara Scott-Rarrick asked that the two Ute Tribes collaborate in celebrating the Animas-La Plata Project, now completed as of May 2009, and bring together all those that took part in the vision, implementation and construction of the ALP, and honor these individuals in a ceremony celebrating their collaborative efforts.

Ute Mountain Ute Chairman, Ernest House, Sr., spoke of the Ute Mountain Ute Indian Tribe doing what they can in Towaoc, to utilize the Stimulus money in an effective manner to benefit the Ute Tribe. One of the concerns was the repairing of highways in Southwest Colorado. Chairman House, Sr., also introduced Ute Royalty members: Miss Ute Kaylisha Cottons, Jr.

Miss Ute Ayesha Clark, and Little Miss Ute Talia Whyte.

After a history of the Bear Dance by Ute Mountain Ute NAGPRA Representative and Tribal Elder, Terry Knight the CCIA meeting adjourned to assemble at the Bear Dance grounds to partake in the first dance. Chairmen, Matthew Box, Ernest House, Sr., and Curtis Cesspooch all entered the corral along with other delegates of the CCIA meeting and started the Ute Bear Dance with many smiling faces abound.

After lunch was served the meeting progressed into the afternoon, Chairman House, Sr., reflected to the mornings update concerning Stimulus Monies to be utilized to help with the development of the Youth Detention Center, while also helping to provide services for the youth of the Towaoc community.

The Colorado Department of Education introduced “Race To the Top”. The following information is from the Lt. Governor O’Brien’s website: www.colorado.gov/cs/Satellite/LeftLtGov/LLG/1190968674172. Race to the Top is a $4.35 billion fund available from the U.S. Department of Education. It is one of the sources of funds available to states for preschool through postsecondary education systems through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act.

Requirements of Race to the Top has not yet released final guidelines concerning this grant opportunity, though public statements by USDE representatives and U.S. Secretary of Education Arne Duncan have provided informal guidance, not knowing what will be included in the Race to the Top RFP, the USDE has indicated that it will solicit proposals from states that seek to advance four key assurance areas. They are: Making progress toward college-and-career-ready standards and rigorous assessments that will improve teaching and learning; Improving student learning, teacher performance and college-and-career readiness through longitudinal data systems; and Making improvements in teacher effectiveness and ensuring that all students have highly qualified teachers.

Improving achievement in low-performing schools by providing intensive support and effective interventions in schools that most need them.

SU Chairman Box, expressed, “how funding by the Government will impact our area, and we (SU Tribe) are looking forward to sitting down with meaningful suggestions to achieve better testing scores”.

SU Councilwoman, Scott-Rarrick added, “we need to recognize our differences within our relationships, being as loud as we can in unity, when we stand together.”

Our Sisters Keeper Coalition Director, Diane Millich received a belated Honorary Proclamation from the Lt. Governor O’Brien, as representative of Governor Bill Ritter, Jr. The Proclamation was to be presented to OSKC on the steps of the Capitol in April, but was postponed due to adverse weather conditions, proclaiming April 5, 2009 as Native American Sexual Assault Awareness Day.

The next CCIA meeting is scheduled, to be held in Ignacio, Colorado on September 10, 2009 at the Sky Ute Casino Resort to coincide with the Southern Ute Tribal Fair and PowWow, to be held the weekend of September 11-13, 2009.

Be flexible Scorpio, a fixed mind set will only slow you down. Best course is to be open to breezy new potential. There is always something new to learn. With the SUN and MERCURY energizing the mind expansion area of your chart, new studies may be in the works for you Scorpio.

♐ SAGITTARIUS (November 23-December 21)

Your financial prowess will be put to the test this month. There are two important eclipses taking place this forecast period. They may be influential in altering your spending habits. First up is a Lunar Eclipse on the 7th that encourages practicality with your finances. Later on the 21st a Solar Eclipse targets joint funds and prompts you to start conserving your resources more attentively.

♑ CAPRICORN (December 22-January 20)

The inspiring trio of NEPTUNE, JUPITER, and CHIRON deliver a message of hope regarding finances. The important point this month is that you maintain a determined attitude. With both of July’s eclipses bearing down on you, it will be a snap to initiate a new beginning. Old outworn ideas should be put to rest on the Full Moon of the 7th. Relationships may demand extra attention Capricorn. Tread lightly around sensitive issues and be prepared to meet your partner half way.

♒ AQUARIUS (January 21-February 19)

The wish granting trio of NEPTUNE, JUPITER, and CHIRON are presently in your sign stirring all kinds of ideas related to your personal desires. But there might be delays in putting some of them into action. URANUS your ruling planet goes into retrograde motion on the 1st slowing down your initiative. Not to worry Aquarius there will still be plenty of action taking place this month to keep you satisfied.

♓ PISCES (February 20-March 20)

It’s all about putting more enjoyment and love into your life this month Pisces. VENUS and MARS in the domestic area of your chart encourage happy times at home with friends coming to visit. Single Pisceans may be planning romantic dinners by candle light. A lively energy is in the works for you little fishes. Get ready as it will be released on the 21st with the Solar Eclipse.

♈ ARIES (March 21-April 20)

July’s focus centers on home and domestic matters. This is a good month to take care of those, “I’ll get around to it” jobs. Clearly the planetary positions denote activity regarding property, signing papers, and settling long-standing family issues. When possible sidestep domestic arguments. Family members might be extra sensitive around the 21st. Do what you can to restore the peace and tranquility Rams.

♉ TAURUS (April 21-May 21)

Happy news Taurus! July’s planetary influences present a lively mix of activities. As your daily events increase much of your time may be taken up with mini trips, and limitless conversations. It’s all good Taurus because your ruling planet VENUS snuggles up to action-prone MARS all month promoting new friendships and gaining a more spirited social life. Aren’t you the lucky one!

♊ GEMINI (May 21-June 21)

Money is the grand focal point for July Twins! Even though you can be very clever with your spending, there’s still room to learn a few new tricks. The Solar Eclipse on the 21st may stimulate novel ideas regarding your financial habits. It may be worth the effort to incorporate more moderate methods where your money is concerned. VENUS and MARS both currently in your sign enhance your personal power, and attract resources your way. Enjoy it Twins!

Pathimi M. GoodTracks

Job Title: Serving as a Culture Department Developer

Description of Duties: The Southern Ute Tribe is exploring the formation of a comprehensive Culture Department. Initially, her primary duties include the collection of information on the cultural functions within the Tribe and affiliated organizations. Later alongside Tribal Council, she will identify how the proposed department can be designed to meet cultural goals and determine what actions will be required to establish the department.

Her main interests are nature and the outdoors, stewardship of the family allotment, engaging in cultural endeavors alongside her family, and caring for her two horses and puppy. Her hobbies are nature photography, documenting family history, hiking, and most recently bowling.

Pathimi is a Southern Ute Tribal member living in the Ignacio area. Miss GoodTracks has held several positions within the Southern Ute Indian Tribe since 1988. She began as an Air Quality Technician and became an Air Quality Specialist before moving to the Natural Resource Department in 1995 as a Lands Field Coordinator. Over the next seven years, she served as a Lands Specialist and then Lands Division Head until 2002 when she chose to continue her employment as the Animas-La Plata Cultural Resource Coordinator, a position whose term ran concurrent with the A-L P Project’s cultural resource work. That work ended in 2007 and she pursued personal goals until her recent appointment within the Tribe.

La Plata County Comprehensive Plan Photo & Logo Contest

La Plata County has embarked on an 18-month community process to update the Comprehensive Plan. As a kick off to the Comprehensive Plan Update, the County is sponsoring a photography and logo design contest. The theme for the contests is "Shaping the Future of our County: Capturing What We Care About." The deadline for entries is June 24, 2009. Cash prizes will be awarded for the top three photographs and logo design winner. For contest submittal requirements and rules, as well as to upload images go to Flickr groups at: www.flickr.com/groups/laplataphotocontest and www.flickr.com/groups/laplatalogodesigncontest. For additional information, contact Jason Meininger, Comprehensive Plan Project Manager for La Plata County Planning Department at (970) 382-6267 or by email at meiningerjl@co.laplata.co.us.

• Photo Contest: The County is seeking photographic images that help define what makes La Plata County a great place to live. The County is inviting all residents to share their photographs of people, places, and things that illustrate what is special about La Plata County. These images will then be posted online and at a community meeting for citizens to vote on the top three.

• Logo and Tagline Design Contest: A logo and tagline will be included on all outreach documents throughout the planning process to help citizens identify information related to this process. The County wants a logo that reflects what makes La Plata a special place to live and shows the community has an eye on the future. Design ideas are welcome from all ages and it is not necessary to be a professional artist.

Everyone enjoyed a beautiful evening on June 10th, promotional night for the summer Heritage Program. The local media and honored guest admired the heritage performers, (l-r) Ian Doughty, Lindsay Box, Ivory Harris, Loren Doughty and Jolette Peabody, dancing gracefully to the beats of the drum, Yellow Jacket in the background. The performances took place every Thursday night starting June 24th through August 26th, 1999 at Veterans Memorial Park.

Healthy Perspectives: "Summer Safety For Kids"

by Dr. Matthew Clark, MD
Southern Ute Health Clinic

Despite the fact that we have had a cold and moist spring, I'm certain that summer is just around the corner. The official beginning of summer is this weekend.

Summertime is a time when kids can enjoy many healthy physical activities in the warm outdoors. Whether it is swimming, biking, hiking, or playing outdoor sports, this is the kind of physical activity that all children need to build strong muscles and bones, an efficient cardiovascular system, and a healthy love for being active.

There are many summer activities for which preventive strategies can reduce the risk of injury or illness. Now is a good time for parents to talk with children to reinforce certain healthy behaviors.

Many kids enjoy activities such as bicycle riding, skating, rollerblading, and skateboarding. While these are great activities for children to engage in, they also pose some risk for injury.

helmets themselves when engaging in activities such as cycling or skating. While certainly not as physically demanding, activities such as 4-wheeling or jet-skiing should also be performed only when wearing a safety helmet.

Water sports are another favorite activity for children during the summer months. The important health issue with water sports is protection from drowning. First, young children should always be accompanied when in or around water by an adult who can swim. Second, children should wear proper safety equipment such as a life vest during activities such as boating. Finally, enrolling children in swim lessons is an excellent way to both ensure long-term water safety as well as to promote a healthy enjoyment of the water.

Many children love exploring nature and hiking in the backcountry and the beautiful mountains. To make this a healthy activity, consideration should be given to adequate hydration, nutrition, sun exposure, and changing weather conditions. During the summer heat and with heavy physical exertion, adolescents and adults need about 1 liter of water per hour to maintain adequate hydration and to prevent overheating.

Healthful snacks such as trail mix, fruits, and nuts can be packed for a long hike. Children should also plan to apply sunscreen early and often during outdoor summer activities to reduce the risk of sunburn and the other harmful effects of the sun. Extra clothing is often needed, especially in the high country, in case cold or moist weather is encountered and to reduce the risk of hypothermia.

By paying attention to a few basic preventive measures, children should be able to get out and enjoy physical activity this summer. It sounds like a healthy plan.

Among the most serious injuries related to these activities are head injuries. These common injuries can be prevented through routine and proper use of a protective helmet.

Helmets need to be examined each year for size or defects. The helmet should always be latched under the chin and should fit snugly so that they do not move when worn. Previously damaged helmets as well as those that no longer fit should be replaced. Also, parents should enforce helmet use as a requirement and should also model this safe behavior by wearing appropriate

The Kidney Corner: "Urinalysis"

by Dr. Mark Saddler, MD
Durango Nephrology Associates

"My doctor asked me for a urine specimen. What was he/she looking for?"

There are many tests which can be done on a urine specimen. Today we will discuss the most common: urine analysis, commonly called simply "urinalysis". This is usually collected as a "clean catch" urine specimen, from the middle of the stream of urine, with care taken to avoid contamination of the urine.

The initial step is to do a "Dipstick" test. The dipstick is an ingenious way of testing for a number of chemical constituents of the urine in a single step. It comprises a plastic strip with small squares at intervals along the strip. Each square has a chemical indicator designed to look for a specific substance in the urine. For example, one square turns green when there is protein in the urine, another changes color when there is blood in the urine, and so on. There is some variation in the exact types of substances tested, but most test for protein, blood, white blood cells (and sometimes other indicators for urine infection), and another shows how concentrated the urine is. This test takes 1 to 2 minutes and is very useful for screening for a variety of problems in a short time.

Although this is a good screening modality for protein in the urine, it is usually necessary to confirm urine protein with a more specific chemical test in the laboratory. This lab evaluation has the added advantage of being "quantitative", that is it can give an absolute amount of protein in the urine, which can be important for monitoring the success of treatment, for example in treating for diabetic kidney disease.

The next step in a routine urinalysis is to examine the urine under the microscope. The urine sample is placed in a centrifuge to concentrate the cellular elements, then a slide is made with a drop of the concentrated urine. Usually, no staining is necessary, so this can be done quite quickly—the centrifuge usually takes about 5 minutes. This enables a direct view what is present in the urine and this can be tremendously useful in diagnosing the type of kidney disease. White blood cells are usually present in urine infections, and in some forms of inflammation of the kidneys. Red blood cells are always abnormal, though they can of course come from anywhere in the urinary tract, and the shape of the red cells can give a clue to where they came from. Small amounts of protein coming through the tubules of the kidneys can sometimes form "casts" which can trap cells or fragments which can give important diagnostic clues about kidney disease.

Father's Day and Birthday Wishes

Wishing our "Little Man" Ambrose Valdez a Happy 2nd Birthday on June 11th. You have brought so much joy and laughter into our lives, and we love you very much!!

Mama Julia, Grandpa Grandpa, Grandma, Uncle Isiah & Auntie Sherisa

Happy Birthday!

No matter how near, or how far, loving memories always keep a son close in heart. Having you for a son means more than you'll ever know—and there's no better time than your birthday to wish you all the happiness the world can offer. Happy Birthday son & God Bless you Always.

Love, MOM

To my Son

Kyle Thompson on 7/16/09
You're a wonderful son, and that's why your birthday means so very much because it's a day to look back and celebrate all you past accomplishments, a day to look forward & anticipate all your future successes... But whatever path you choose, whatever future you make for yourself, know that you are already a success in my eyes.

For it has been a great joy to have a son like you to love, to watch you grow & mature into a responsible man... All that we have shared through the years has only reinforced what a very special person you are & how deserving you are of life's best.

Love Always,
Ashely Vicenti-Murray

Justice & Regulatory Host 1st Justice Conference

by Taylor Riley, Zack Russell and Mounnek Wing
SUCAP/TTA with the SU Drum

The American Indian Justice Conference was held at the Sky Ute Casino Event Center on June 9-11, 2009. The role of the conference was to understand Indian Law and to know how it started. Elaine Newton, Chief Judge of the Southern Ute Tribal Court introduced 12 Gauge Drum Group, the Academy Drum Group Boys, and the Veterans Honor Song.

Judge Newton then welcomed Beckie Murdock, Assistant Director of Criminal Justice Center for Innovation. Murdock shared a short story about her turtle pin passed to her from Elaine Newton. Murdock believes the turtle represents what the justice system does. "The journey is slow like the turtle but we still continue moving, though it may be hard."

Beverly Watts Davis, Director of the Center for Substance Abuse Prevention from San Antonio, Texas, informed the participants about Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services. Davis informed the participants about Access to Recovery. Access to Recovery provides treatment for people seeking help with an alcohol and drug addiction. Only twenty-four states have an Access to Recovery program that supports the people after they leave recovery. There are eight components of recovery: family, faith, community, prevention, treatment, employment, peer-to-peer, and housing. Davis also talks about a treatment locator, which can also be found on the SAMHSA website or can locate by phone: 1-800-662-HELP.

Carey Vicenti, Assistant Professor of Sociology at the Fort Lewis informed the participants about Tribal State Comparative Law. Professor Vicenti discusses the opportunities for collaboration, and also the differences and similarities in Tribal and State Law.

Janelle Doughty, the Director of the Department of Justice and Regulatory of the Southern Ute Tribe, demonstrated and discussed issues such as the Adam Walsh Act, Fish and Game, and Air Quality.

Later in the day the participants broke out into workshops. The workshops were based on many different discussions. One of the workshops presented was CASOM (Comprehensive Approach to Sex Offender Management) by Michelle Parks, the Associate Director of the Tribal Judicial Institute, University of North Dakota School of Law. This provided information to the participants concerning the need for tribal codes that support sentencing alternatives and pre-sentence requirements when managing sex offenders. Parks also informed the participants about the Tribal Courts Assisting Program containing the new training and technical assistance.

Dave Rogers the Tribal Law

Enforcement Programs Manager, also from CASOM informed the participants that his session features sex offenders management from a tribal probation officer's perspective. In addition sex offender management programs have interested more tribal communities.

On June 10, Scott Moore, Associate Judge of the Southern Ute Immediate Sanctions Program, discussed Alternatives to Incarceration. Judge Moore shared ideas of how Alternatives to Incarceration can help Tribal Courts. Later throughout the day participants again broke out into workshop sessions. Another session was JASAP (Juvenile Alcohol Safety Action Program). The session overviewed the consumption of alcohol by minors. Discussion was to reverse the progression of alcohol and drug abuse of juvenile clients. It provided participants the necessary tools to develop their own MCA (Minor Consuming Alcohol) community diversion program.

A Brown Bear cub was spotted Saturday, June 13, 2009 roaming on the Southern Ute Tribal Campus, Esther Rima snapped this shot of the cub making a run for it. The cub was also spotted milling around the Mouache-Capote Building earlier in the day as well. Bears are known to scavenge for food in residential areas, when food sources are low, it may be tempting to approach a cub, but beware it's mother may be lurking close by, never approach a bear! The recipient must have a desire to continue to pursue an education, and return serve the Tribe and the community. A Selection Committee of the Director of Education and the Tribal Chairman and Vice-Chair make the final selection of those who were nominated by letters of recommendations.

Mariah plans to continue her pursuit of becoming a teacher after she finishes High School next year.

The Southern Ute Boys and Girls Club, SMART Moves class (top photo) discusses feelings, breathing and relaxation techniques with our guest speaker Della Romero. The members did an awesome exercise with cornstarch, where they learned they could not get through the cornstarch if they punched it, yet only when they touched softly they could get through the cornstarch. Thanks to Della Romero for being our guest speaker!

The Leadership Council, were visited by honorable elder, Larry Tucker and the Southern Ute Culture Department Developer, Pathimi GoodTracks. Mr. Tucker shared what it truly means to be a leader, and talked about the roles of silence and listening in Leadership. Pathimi Goodtracks shared why giving tobacco is important when knowledge is shared, and how there is a distinction from cigarettes. The Leadership Council loved spending time with our two guests, and will be remembering the lessons learned throughout our Council. Thank you Larry Tucker and Pathimi GoodTracks!

The Boys and Girls Club has many enrichment classes offered every Monday during the summer. One of the weekly favorites of club is Break dancing class taught by BGC staff, Ryan Duffy-Wirth. Each class starts out with a warm-up which is a freestyle circle, where each member jumps in the circle and shows what they got. Showcased here is Ouray Watts, Southern Ute Tribal Member who is one of the best B-boys (boy break dancer) you will ever meet.

The Shiloh Baptist Church from Tennessee helps the Southern Ute Montessori Head Start raise money on June 17, 2009, by helping cook and serve for the community outside the Head Start building. The Head Start is raising the money to provide a new Head Start building and supplies after it is built. The Head Start staff brought the kids out for a meal of hot dogs, potato salad, chips and fruit.

Congratulations!

The family of Robbin Santistevan would like to congratulate Robbin on a job well done at Motorcycle Mechanics in Phoenix, Arizona. Robbin completed a 16 month course being in the 98% of his class and not to mention with "perfect attendance" graduating on April 24, 2009. Robb, your family is so proud of you and love you very much. We missed you everyday you were away and thank the Lord for bringing you home safely. You truly are a "biker" in our eyes.
Your Family, Lori, Mike, Ricki, Lawrence, Nick and all your grandchildren.

Camp, No Tent: Summer Spikers Sought Ex 'Cat Darling Dandy At CNFR

by Joel Priest
Special to the Drum

Having commenced earlier this week down in Farmington, N.M., the Four Corners Volleyball Club summer camp series for Four Corners area girls (ages 10-18) still has several opportunities for prospective players to sharpen their skills in Ignacio before the fall season. Interested campers should register early, as space is limited, and camps tend to sell out.

Up first is the FCVBC Mid-School Camp for incoming seventh and eighth graders, to be June 30-July 2 at the SunUte Community Center, and running from noon until 5 p.m. each day. Offering work in all skill areas, plus position training and game-action scenarios, the cost is $35.

The July 7-9 Klub Digz Beginner Camp (incoming fourth-sixth graders) follows at SunUte, running between the same hours daily and offered at the same price. Beginning players are encouraged to attend, as basic fundamentals will be stressed in a team-based atmosphere.

Third up is the FCVBC Advanced High School Camp (incoming ninth-12th graders, cost $60), to be held August 5-7 from 12-5 p.m. daily. Upper-level junior varsity and varsity-level players will undergo intense fall preparations these three days at SunUte—a 'survival course' of sorts for the top-end high school battles.

But take note: There are camp registration deadlines for all campers, and walk-ins may not be guaranteed a place. The cut-off date for the first two camps above is June 26, and August 3 for the Advanced High School Camp.

Campers and parents can download all brochures and registrations online by following links at www.fourcornersvolleyball.org/news.html or by contacting FCVBC Director Terene Foutz, at CoachT4U2@aol.com.

HITTING THE CLUBS: Several Ignacio Volleycats have picked up extra reps this spring in FCVBC's chain of USA Volleyball-sanctioned teams. Coached by former IHS assistant Samantha Kenner and 2008 Kirtland [N.M.] Central grad Jourdan Bennett-Begaye, the short-season Klub Red 18's included Vernetta Carel, Autumn Gallegos, Morgan Gantt, Rylie Jefferson, Abeth Okall, Kristie Ribera, Santana Rodriguez and Ashley Self.

Kayla Lewis, meanwhile, played for former Wisconsin Badger standout (and 2002 Pagosa Springs grad) Katie Lorenzen's 18's—also a USAV 'Regional' team, as opposed to a 'Travel' squad.

Aviation is currently his field of study.

But this week it's been Travis Darling's emotions taking flight, as the former Ignacio Bobcat broke out of his first College National Finals Rodeo chute this week.

Competing right in his adopted backyard—though to be fair, it's much closer to his pre-Ignacio hometown of Steamboat Springs—of Casper, Wyoming at the 61st CNFR, the sophomore saddle bronc-buster stood a solid third in the event's average as of Tuesday morning, midway through the second go-round.

His 69.5-point ride aboard contractor Harry Vold's Coyote Kid, starting Monday's slack session, gave him a two-head score of 143.5, although the ride was holding in a tie for just ninth in the go. His opening 74 in Sunday's performance put him in a tie for fifth in the first go, but only 2.5 behind 2008 champion Chuck Schmidt of Black Hills

State (Spearfish, SD), who was in second place.

Leading the first go was Jake Wright of Western Texas College (Snyder, TX) with a 79.5—right before Darling's ride—while his twin brother Jesse (College of Southern Idaho; Twin Falls, ID) was tied for tops in the second with a 78.

Darling's next try was listed for Wednesday, early in the second section of the third go.

Riding for Casper College, he ranked second in SB at the end of the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association—Central Rocky Mountain Region season, which concluded the first week-end of May. His 1,015 points also ranked 13th in the NIRA's season-ending standings before the ultimate finale at the Casper Events Center began.

The top three riders in each event, and top two men's and women's teams from the NIRA's 11 regions qualified, though Darling's Thunderbirds missed out as a unit (finishing third in the CRMR). Over $200,000 in scholarships from the U.S. Smokeless Tobacco Co.

Scholarship Awards Program will also be up for grabs at this year's CNFR, which wraps up on Saturday.

BARREL SEASON ROLLING: Results from the National Barrel Horse Association—Colorado District 8 competition on May 31 at the Montezuma County Fairgrounds outside Cortez at last were reported, and a pair of locals placed among the total field of 101 entrants.

In the Open 1D class, Patti Carlile took second in 15.673 seconds, just off the 15.603 booked by Teigan Adams of Castle View, Utah. And in Open 3D, Jessie Walker (16.610) finished third in an even tighter battle with Hesperus' Stephanie Skogland (16.608) and Cortez's Karen Delay (16.604).

After an early summer break, including this weekend's Western Nationals in Ogden, UT, the next D-8 event will be July 19 at the MCFG with action beginning at 10:30 a.m. Best part is, there's no charge to watch! The next Ignacio stop will be the following week on the 26th.

IHS head coach Terene Foutz rises for a kill shot during the 2009 'Fun In The Sun' Doubles Tournament. Foutz/Howard (match record 2-1) placed second in the heated Women's 'GOLD' bracket, falling 20-22, 21-19, 14-16 to the Tessa Andrews/Adrienne Dettler duo. The former is a current Mesa State player, the latter Fort Lewis College's all-time digs leader.

Give Me Shelter

Josh Batchelor and staff members from the Southern Ute Division of Wildlife put some final touches on shade structures at Lake Capote on Thursday, June 4, 2009 in preparation for upcoming summer events. The Southern Ute Employee Appreciation Picnic will be held at Lake Capote this year, with a variety of events and activities.

Lake Manager Dusk Edwards and Southern Ute Division of Wildlife Staff are all working hard to prepare for this annual event previously hosted in Ignacio, Durango, and at Vallecito Lake. This event is returning to Tribal lands in order to raise awareness of the excellent facilities and recreation opportunities that the Tribe has to offer at Lake Capote. Working in the field on Thursday alongside Josh, were Ben Zimmerman, Ron Price, Darius Smith, and Jon Broholm.

It's Happening In Ignacio, Planning For Future Growth West Of Town

Media Release
Town Of Ignacio

On Thursday, June 11, 2009, the Town of Ignacio hosted the consultant's team that has come together to conceptually plan the infrastructure needed for the town to eventually grow all the way to Rock Creek west, north and south to Southern Ute Tribal lands.

The purpose of the meeting was to explain to town and area citizens what areas will be analyzed and put into a Master Plan. The purpose of a Master Plan is to have a systematic and integrated way to guide residential growth. The following areas will be covered by the Master Plan:

- Water Distribution
- Rock Creek & Local Drainage
- Transportation (roads)
- Natural Gas Distribution,
- Telephone
- Wastewater Collection
- Irrigation
- Electrical Distribution
- Cable Television

• Parks & Trails

The possibility of doing such a comprehensive plan came as a result of a grant from the Department of Local Affairs, with monetary participation from the GF Development Group LLC, a business entity of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe Growth Fund, and the Town of Ignacio.

The next meeting for citizens will be a focus group for those interested in Parks & Trails and an open house to review and comment on a draft of the Master Plan.
