2009 In Photos: Tribe Grows, Celebrates Amid Recession

Looking back on the Southern Ute Reservation in 2009, milestones were reached and other dreams just began. The Animas-La Plata Project finally opened after almost a century of work. The Tribe partnered with Solix Biofuels to create a plant to convert algae to energy. The first-ever Tri-Ute Games were hosted right here in Ignacio. We review the highlights on page 6.

Museum Receives Unique Coat Possibly Owned by Buckskin Charlie

By Ace Stryker
The Southern Ute Drum

It's a far cry from the high-thread-count attire worn by today's Tribal leaders, but the latest donation to the Southern Ute Cultural Center and Museum has few equals in terms of heritage.

The coat was donated earlier this month by Gaylord Torrence, senior curator of American Indian art at the Nelson-Atkins Museum of Art in Kansas City, Mo. Made of two pieces of deerhide sewn together, it's believed to have belonged to Buckskin Charlie, who led the Southern Ute Indian Tribe from 1880 until his death at age 96 in 1936.

Museum Director Lynn Brittner said while no photographs exist of Charlie (who was born Sapiah and later adopted an English name) wearing the coat, several facts make him a likely candidate. Foremost among them is a drawing on the front that appears to be a portrait of then-President Theodore Roosevelt.

"Buckskin Charlie was at President Roosevelt's inauguration," Brittner said. "He was in the inaugural parade. We have photos of that."

Charlie isn't wearing the coat in the photos, but that doesn't rule him out; the coat could have been made to wear during the president's visit to the reservation, or as a gift that was never delivered. Another portrait on the back, ostensibly of Charlie, adds to the case for his ownership.

Earlier this month, the Southern Ute Cultural Center and Museum received a deerskin coat believed to have belonged to Buckskin Charlie, the last traditional chief of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe, who died in 1936. The coat is decorated with drawings of traditional scenes and a large portrait of President Theodore Roosevelt on the front.

The coat's return to the Tribe was a long, convoluted journey. Some years after its creation it became part of the collection of Wallace Stark, who worked as a carpenter for the Indian Service on the Uintah-Ouray Ute Reservation in northeastern Utah in the early 20th century. It was passed down through his family and eventually sold at an estate sale. Torrence acquired it in 2000 from the person who purchased it at the estate sale. Brittner said she and Torrence connected through a mutual friend. Torrence called her on Christmas Eve 2009 to discuss a possible donation, and after a meeting decided to permanently return it to Ignacio.

Brittner said the coat has found its way back to where it belongs. As the museum ramps up for the opening of its new location in spring 2012, items like this will go a long way toward preserving Ute culture.

Walkers Stride Through Frosty Morning To Bring In The New Year

Walkers of the "Saa Swanis-hiswaqs" Memorial New Years Day Sobriety Walk take their first steps into the new year and the frosty morning, as they make their way towards Ignacio along HWY 171 from the Colorado-New Mexico stateline. The walk covered 10 miles and was physically challenging, yet refreshing as each of the participants walked with purpose and a goal of making 2010 a better one for themselves, their families and their communities.

By Robert Ortiz
The Southern Ute Drum

Jan. 1 is significant for many in starting anew: for some it's a day of celebrating, and to others it's about change.

For the 20 walkers that braved the frosty winter morning on the roads of southwest Colorado, it was to bring in the New Year in a good way; it was about celebrating sobriety and remembering those we lost in 2009.

The walk was first started more than 23 years ago by Saa Swanis-hiswaqs, also known as Robert Buckskin (or simply Buckskin), as the "Spiritual Walk for Alcohol-free American Indian Communities." The Buckskin family has sponsored the walk since 1990, walking 10 miles and adding another mile each year. In 2000, the walk covered 20 miles.

The 2010 walk was sponsored by the Fathers' Voices program in collaboration with the Buckskin family.

Council Suspends Code of Ethics

On Jan. 5, the Southern Ute Tribal Council suspended the Tribe's Code of Ethics for the filing of any new complaints. Although the filing of any new complaints has been suspended, any and all existing complaints will proceed in accordance with the current code. The Tribal Council may consider further action with regard to the code at a later date.

New Ignacio Guild Seeks Artists

All artists residing in the Ignacio School District are invited to attend an organizational meeting of the Ignacio Area Artist Guild. The meeting will take place Jan 20 at 5:30 p.m. in the Butch McClanahan Meeting Room at the Ignacio Community Library. The group will promote opportunities for artists to network, connect and exchange ideas. Everyone is welcome. For information, call 970-883-5440 or 970-759-4040.

Five-year Agricultural Leases Available to Tribal Members

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe's Department of Natural Resources is offering four properties for lease. The leases will be five-year agriculture leases that begin in January 2010. Offerings include properties that are either fully or partially irrigated. These leases are available to Southern Ute Tribal members only. Applications are available and must be returned by Jan. 29. Applications may be picked up at the Southern Ute Agriculture Division and the Southern Ute Lands Division. For more information, contact Kevin Mallow in the Agriculture Division at 970-563-0220.

Sand Available for Residential Use

There is sand available for Tribal members to use on icy portions of their homes. They will need to haul and spread at their own leisure. The sand pile is located behind the old casino site, "Rolling Thunder Hall." It is not for commercial use. For more information, contact Ernest Pinnecoose, property and facilities director, at 970-563-0100 ext. 2220.

Tribal Members Invited to Valentine's Workshop

Attention all interested Southern Ute Tribal members and immediate families: you are invited to a Valentine's Workshop on Jan. 29. The workshop will take place at the Southern Ute Education Building at 10 a.m. Refreshments will be available. For more information, call Ella Louise at 970-563-0220.

Disabled American Veterans Vans

The Disabled American Veterans organization is running a VA Health Care van from Durango to Albuquerque on Tuesdays and Thursdays. To arrange transportation to the Albuquerque VA Hospital on these days, call Webb Gary at 970-884-0663. They are also running a van from the Farmington area to Albuquerque on Mondays and Wednesdays. Call Harriet Mulnix at 505-793-1782 to arrange transportation to the Albuquerque VA Hospital from the Farmington area.

Host a Mammogram Party

Native American women and women 40 and over: invite three friends, call me and I will schedule mammograms at Mercy Hospital for you and your friends. Museum Receives Unique Coat • from page 1

Utes, and Ute artifacts are quite rare," she said. "It's time that Southern Ute art is being returned to the museum."

Following is Torrence's examination of the coat and the story of its acquisition in his own words:

"This rare and unusual coat is constructed from two deer hides. One was profusely painted with a multitude of images comprising a reservation camp scene, including human figures, horses, dogs, trees and dwellings. Clearly visible are painted teepees, cabins, a wall-tent, wagons and an early automobile, as is a train going over a trestle bridge (a depiction that appears in other Ute paintings of the period, suggesting that the bridge and passing trains was a common experience for those living on the reservation). Also present are two strange and whimsical depictions floating randomly within the composition – non-Indian, comic-like images in rectilinear formats – perhaps representing advertising billboards. Finally, the separated parts of a large eagle are visible along the seam at the back and at the end of one sleeve. Some of these images were rendered in the flat, pictographic manner of traditional Plains painting, while others reveal an attempt to depict volumetric form and three-dimensional space in the Euro-American tradition. The transitional style of the painting and the materials with which it was made suggest that it was produced around 1900.

This coat, donated to the Southern Ute Cultural Center and Museum earlier this month by Gaylord Torrence, appears to have been created around 1900. It's composed of two pieces of deerhide sewn together with a modern sewing machine.

image appears to have been created at the time the coat was made. Indeed, it would seem the coat was produced for the sole purpose of creating the portrait of Roosevelt, most likely for some special event honoring the president or the nation. Because the image is captioned "the president," the painting was almost certainly made between 1901 and 1909, the years that Roosevelt served in office. Distinct from the other paintings covering the coat, the portrait is rendered exclusively in dark blue with the exception of pale, rouge-colored cheeks.

"Measuring approximately 30 by 43 inches, the coat was probably made for an older child. A narrow belt cut from the first hide

"The imagery comprising the coat is remarkable, combining the work of at least two, and probably three different artists."

- Gaylord Torrence, donor

duced around 1900.

"The second hide was created at an earlier time, probably during the 1880s, and is painted with minimal images. These include an Indian warrior on a horse, turning and looking back; this figure, which now occupies the right arm of the coat, has a gun cradled in his arm, while a large scalp hangs from the bridle of his horse. On the back of the coat, inverted, is a portrait of the well-known Ute leader Buckskin Charlie; below this is an elephant with what appears to be a Navajo blanket on its back, undoubtedly seen by the artist in a circus; and below this is the portrait of an unknown white man. These depictions, which must be among the earliest attempts of western-style portraiture by a Plains artist, are rendered in native, brown-black pigment and filled with saturate areas of trade color. The painted outlines of the images are eroded and, in some areas, completely gone, indicating that the hide sustained significant use before being incorporated into a garment; still, the impressed lines of the drawing remain visible.

"The dominant image embellishing the coat is a portrait of President Teddy Roosevelt. Unlike the hides painted prior to the coat's construction, this extraordinary was used for closure. The garment was not finely constructed in comparison with traditional Plains standards – it is loosely fitted, sewn with a sewing machine (in use on many reservations by the beginning of the 20th century) – and has the appearance of something made in haste. That the coat was made of recycled hides suggests the maker had nothing else available at the time, further indicating expediency.

"Taken as a whole, the imagery comprising the coat is remarkable, combining the work of at least two, and probably three different artists. The front and back surfaces are visually rich and filled with pictorial information that is both fascinating and engaging. The framed image of Roosevelt, undoubtedly rendered from a photograph or illustration, is at once imposing and delightful. Most significantly, a portrait of this scale is unprecedented in Plains pictographic art and quite probably unique. In every respect, the coat is historically important and a remarkable example of reservation-era artistic expression. The firmly documented Ute origin contributes to its rarity.

"The coat was collected by Wallace Stark, who was employed by the government as a carpenter for the Indian Service on the Uintah-Ourray Ute Reservation in northeastern Utah from 1884 to 1924. It is likely that he served as an interpreter as well, as he is known to have accompanied the Northern Ute delegation to Washington D.C. in 1905 when the tribe sought to persuade the U.S. government to halt the allotment and sale of reservation lands. It is reasonable to assume from his presence on the trip, and from his inclusion in group photographs of the delegation, that he was regarded as a trusted friend by the Northern Ute people and their leaders. A photograph showing Stark as a participant in the Bear Dance, an important Ute ceremony, further indicates his close relationship with the tribe.

"One may speculate that the coat was made as a gift for the President during the delegation's 1905 trip and, for unknown reasons, was never presented. It is more likely, however, that the coat was created to be worn on the occasion of a visit by Roosevelt to the Ute reservation. Such a dramatic expression of esteem would have surely created a sensation. It is also possible, of course, that it was made for one of the Wild West shows that were popular during the period, but its provenance suggests otherwise. Finally, one cannot rule out that it was produced simply as a patriotic gesture, in the same spirit that American flags and United States seals were executed in Plains beadwork and Navajo textiles, but this seems unlikely considering the singularity of the subject.

"The coat was one of a number of items collected by Stark, all of which descended through the family and were ultimately sold as part of the family's estate. The collection included a painted hide, three Bear Dance rasps; several beaded items, all of which were of Ute manufacture dating from 1875 to 1900; two Navajo textiles – women's chief blankets from about 1890 – that were quite popular among the Utes; a few small pieces of heavily worn Navajo jewelry that probably belonged to Stark himself; and the photographs mentioned above.

"I obtained the coat in 2000 from the person who purchased the collection directly from the executors of the Stark estate. I was provided the documentation of the collection at that time."

Youth, Adult Programs Have Openings

Durango Parks and Recreation has several openings in many popular winter activities. Programs include youth basketball (grades 1-6), the SNOWDOWN three-on-three basketball tournament (grades 3-12), Chess Club (ages 6-18), Parents' Night Out (Jan. 15 and Jan. 29 babysitting for ages 4-12), and Puppy Class 101 (for ages 8 to adult and puppies 10-22 weeks old). Check out the Winter Park and Recreation Activities Guide for more information about these and many more programs. Sign up today at the Recreation Center, Mason Center or Chapman Hill or online at www.durangogov.org.

Note to Parents: Take the Night Off

The fun and caring childcare staff at the Durango Community Recreation Center will offer a special evening of fun for children, ages 4-12, on Friday, Jan. 15 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Parents' Night Out will feature a variety of special activities, snacks and even a movie! Parents may drop off children in the Windom Room at the Recreation Center at 6 p.m. Pickup takes place immediately following the completion of the event at 9 p.m. The cost is $20 per child, and parents are not required to remain in the facility for this program. Preregistration is required at least one day prior to the event. Parents may register their children at the Recreation Center or online at www.durangogov.org/resident/parks_leisure/webtractro.html. BLM Proposes Animas Mountain Fuels Reduction Project

The Bureau of Land Management is proposing a fuels reduction project on approximately 733 acres of BLM land on the top of Animas Mountain. Primary access to the fuels reduction project site is through the city parking lot and trailhead located north of 32nd Street and approximately 1,500 feet of trail on city property. Minimal impacts to the trail will be necessary to complete the project. The fuels reduction project will reduce the risk of high-severity wildfire, protecting adjacent private property and natural resources, while improving habitat for big-game wildlife species. The City of Durango will be sponsoring an open house about the fuels reduction project on Tuesday, Jan. 19 from 5 to 6 p.m. at City Hall (949 E. 2nd Ave.) in the Council Chambers. Representatives from the city and Bureau of Land Management will be available to answer questions and interested community members are encouraged to attend. City Council is scheduled to consider granting an administrative easement across city property to the Bureau of Land Management at their regularly scheduled meeting on Feb. 2. For additional information regarding the Open House for the Animas Mountain fuels reduction project, contact the Parks and Recreation Department at 970-375-7300.

San Juan Basin Health Offers Friday Flu Vaccine Clinics

With regular flu season approaching, San Juan Basin Health Department is offering opportunities for anyone who wants to get vaccinated against the seasonal flu or H1N1. These Friday FluPLUS clinics are also a great opportunity for individuals to get caught up on their tetanus-and-pertussis (whooping cough) booster combination shot, which is offered for $15 (one-third the normal cost). Pneumonia shots are offered at $15 as well and are recommended now for anyone at high risk for respiratory disease. The clinics will be held from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. beginning Jan. 15 and will continue every Friday through Jan. 29. All clinics are at San Juan Basin Health Department at 281 Sawyer Drive in Bodo Park. For more information, call 970-247-5702.

Only the asphalt of County Road 321 south of Ignacio dates this photograph of participants in the Buckskin family's annual "Spiritual Walk for Alcohol Free American Indian Communities," staged on New Year's morning, 2000. The Buckskins have sponsored the walk since 1990, when they first walked the 10 miles to start the year in a positive way. They added a mile each year, covering 20 miles on this date 10 years ago, in what the family says will be the final year for the observance.

Youth of the Year Announced

During Tuesday night's celebration at the Sky Ute Casino Resort the Boys and Girls Club of Ignacio announced the winner of this year's Youth of the Year, which went to none other than Jacob Frost for his dedication and leadership in the club. A short performance followed on stage from the Native Hip-hop workshop participants. Dinner was served to all those in attendance, many of whom are the support network for youth programs throughout the Ignacio community. Parents, community members and youth joined together on the Rolling Thunder Lanes to finish the evening with bowling. Pictured above, Jacob Frost stands with his father, Andrew Frost, and team leaders from the B&GC: Jen Bartlett, Gina Cosio, and Mari Villaluna.

of the late Saa Swanis-hiswaqs, said her family had been looking for someone to revive the tradition since her father's passing.

"The family wanted someone in the community to come forward and take over the walk," she said.

When Fathers' Voices asked if it could sponsor the walk, the family gave their blessings and support.

Cynthia Buckskin, wife of Robert, prepared a brief statement of about the walk and its significance to the community: "The walk was our family's way of celebrating the New Year as well as honoring our loved ones who had passed on."

Twenty people participated in this year's walk. Among them were Cynthia Buckskin, Oolcu Buckskin and her daughters Mamakwa and Keyana; Jr. Miss Southern Ute, Autumn Medicine Blanket, her sister Sage and their uncle Patrick Watts; Miracle and son KJ; Blenda Ortiz; Mari Villaluna, wife of Adriano Buckskin; Brian and "Peaches"; Chris Jocks; Robyn Jackson; Fathers' Voices members Shannon Brown and son Brandon Mills; Clarence Smith and his daughters, Brittney and Lorraine Owl Child; Velma Armijo; and Robert Ortiz.

Brandon Mills, the youngest participant at age 8, walked the entire way. It had been five years since the passing of Buckskin, and the walk issued in the beginning of a new decade. Two of the participants were pregnant during the walk and symbolically carried new life into the New Year.

The walk was not only in memory of Buckskin, but also of those lost in the past years, including Cassandra Yazzie, the wife of Fathers' Voices Board Member Jason Hotchkiss, who passed away in a fatal car accident on County Road 172 in November 2009. Yazzie had graduated from Fort Lewis College last year and recently finished a media workshop with the Southern Ute Boys and Girls Club. Their children were in the same vehicle as Yazzie and were injured in the accident. All have made miraculous recoveries.

The walk began at the Colorado-New Mexico state line at 8:30 a.m. and proceeded north into Ignacio along Highway 171, ending at the Ouray Memorial Cemetery. The walk took about four hours to complete and was followed by a meal at the Southern Ute Higher Education Building of buffalo stew, red chili, green chili stew, frybread and tortillas. Water for the walk was donated by Three Springs.

The walk was made possible by the help of many people, but in large part by a man whose vision was to see a better life for American Indians and their communities. Said one of the participants: "That same vision will be carried by our youth into the future."

HHS Announces New Campaigns For 2009 H1N1 Flu Vaccine

Media Release U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services

New PSAs Feature Actor Wes Studi, Secretary Kathleen Sebelius, and Indian Health Service Director Yvette Roubideaux

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services today unveiled new public service announcement campaigns to encourage American Indians and Alaska Natives to get the H1N1 flu vaccine.

"This is a challenging flu season for tribal communities," said HHS Secretary Kathleen Sebelius. "That is why we continue to encourage American Indians and Alaska Natives to get the H1N1 flu vaccine. Top scientists and doctors at the Indian Health Service and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention have worked closely with leaders and communities to help communicate important flu prevention messages. These new PSAs will help educate families on why getting the H1N1 vaccine is safe, effective, and the best way to protect yourself and your loved ones from the flu."

The new PSA campaign includes two radio spots and several television spots. The radio PSAs are available in 30-second and 60-second formats and feature Secretary Sebelius and HHS Director of the Indian Health Service Yvette Roubideaux, M.D. One TV spot features Dr. Roubideaux. The additional TV spots feature famous American Indian actor Wesley "Wes" Studi.

Wes Studi has appeared in Academy Award-winning films such as Dances with Wolves, The Last of the Mohicans, and Geronimo: An American Legend. Two television PSAs that Wes Studi recorded are available today and the rest will become available in the coming days. The new PSAs build on HHS' outreach efforts to tribal communities on H1N1 that began when the disease was first identified last spring.

"H1N1 is a serious flu that is still a threat to American Indians and Alaska Natives, especially those with underlying health conditions like asthma or diabetes," said Dr. Roubideaux. "Flu season typically lasts until May, which is why getting the H1N1 vaccine now is critical to protecting your health. It is especially important for people with underlying health conditions to get the H1N1 flu vaccine."

American Indian and Alaska Native communities have been hit especially hard by the H1N1 flu because these groups have higher rates of asthma, diabetes, and other underlying conditions that make individuals more susceptible to complications from the H1N1 flu. The CDC reported last month that American Indians and Alaska Natives are four times more likely to die from the H1N1 flu than other Americans.

All PSAs are available on Flu.gov/PSA.

The new PSAs were released on "Underlying Health Conditions Flu Vaccination Day" as part of National Influenza Vaccination Week. National Influenza Vaccination Week, Jan. 10-16, 2010, is an observance that was established to highlight the importance of continuing influenza vaccination, as well as fostering greater use of flu vaccine after the holiday season into January and beyond.

Teachers, Parents Come Together for Bowling Social

By Ace Stryker
The Southern Ute Drum

About 120 teachers, parents and other members of Ignacio’s education community turned out Jan. 4 for the Southern Ute Education Department’s first-ever New Year’s bowling social.

The event was open to all staff of the Ignacio School District and parents of children in local schools. Besides bowling – which proved challenging for attendees to varying degrees – there was free food, door prizes and other competitions aimed at fostering a get-to-know-you environment.

La Titia Taylor, director of the Tribe’s Education Department, said the event was a success in bringing everyone together to have a good time.

“Everyone that attended really enjoyed it,” she said. “I received e-mails from school employees on how much they liked it.”

Found making an earnest effort on the lanes was Toby Roderick, vice president of the Ignacio School Board. He said he appreciated the opportunity to meet with parents outside a formal school setting.

“It’s absolutely beneficial,” he said. “It gets us out of the parent-teacher hierarchy and gets us into more of a social setting.”

Toby Roderick, vice president of the Ignacio School Board, winds up for a strike during Southern Ute Higher Education’s New Year’s bowling social on Jan. 4. The event gave parents and teachers an opportunity to mingle in a social setting.

Taylor said given the response to this year’s event, she’s optimistic about the prospect of future get-togethers.

“We appreciate the teachers and were glad some parents could make it,” she said. “Next year we want more parents and will work on recruiting them.”

At the end of the day, Floyd Jameson came up with the high score among men and Cindy Valdez claimed the ladies’ crown. The high-scoring team consisted of Jameson, Laura Sanchez, Renae Cuthair, Chris Dekay, Bob Overturf and Ardie Eleck.

Among the teachers winning door prizes were Barb Fjerstad, Lori Leland, Lindsay Hayden, Howard Searle, Mark Zaharko, Michelle Whitefeather, Deb Meunier, Lynelle Strickers, Jill Tierney, Brian Crane, Sherry Ann Marlowe and Rocky Cundiff. Cuthair, who also played on the winning team, was the lone parent who took home a door prize.

Dr. Pat Dobbs won the nefarious honor of lowest score, while the highest number of gutter balls went, perhaps mercifully, unrecorded.

The Year in Pictures: 2009 Brought Algae, SUIMA Inauguration, Museum Takes Shape

Students of the Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy held a "mock inauguration" in January 2009 to coincide with the real event in Washington D.C., in which Barack Obama became the first minority citizen to obtain the office of president of the United States. Since entering office, Obama has shown favor toward policies of tribal sovereignty and self-determination. In this picture, Lower Elementary School teacher Shauna Steffler displays a newspaper to emphasize the historical significance of the country's 44th president.

Tribe Assumes Control

In a historic move, the Southern Ute Indian Tribe took over operations of the Southern Ute Health Center in October 2009, relieving the Indian Health Service of administrative duties. Because of legal snags, the process took more than four years to complete. Above, Chairman Matthew J. Box signs the document making it official under Community Health Representative Public Law 93-638.

Construction of the Southern Ute Cultural Center and Museum's new location continues, with plans now to finish by the end of 2011 for a spring 2012 opening. Director Lynn Brittner says the facility will provide state-of-the-art storage for Tribal artifacts. The annual "Day of Remembrance," formerly "Walk of the Warriors," began with a posting of the colors by various veterans, seen here led by Commander Ronnie Baker. The Southern Ute Veterans Association and the Southern Ute Indian Tribe hosted the event, which included a procession to the Bear Dance bridge. Tribal Elder Alden Naranjo Jr. gave a blessing before tossing a wreath into the Pine River for the Tribe's fallen naval warriors. At the Ouray Memorial Cemetery, flags were raised to half-mast and "Taps" was played as a 21-gun salute honored those buried there.

A summer harvest is brought to market in July 2009, marking one of the first Farmers' Market events here in Ignacio. The market is held at Shoshone Park in downtown Ignacio. The idea has been in the works for several years, rallied for by a small committee of locals. The idea of the market is a community-minded one that encourages residents of Ignacio and other Four Corners communities to bring fruits, vegetables, jewelry and other handcrafted items, including art.

The Boys and Girls Club of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe hosted a Native Hip-hop Workshop in November 2009 in which 60 youth created a film, a music track, and written and spoken-word pieces. The workshop was open to all native and non-native community members from 9 to 18. Ten local organizations supported the workshop, including Tribal Information Services, the Ignacio Chamber of Commerce, SunUte Community Center, KSUT Tribal Radio and various restaurants and businesses in Ignacio.

Tribe Hosts First Tri-Ute Games

Ignacio Climbs Uphill at Rocky Mountain Invitational

By Joel Priest
Special to the Drum

With two state champion teams in the field, the tournament might have seemed a little "topheavy" as it began last Saturday. From Ignacio's perspective, it definitely had next-level status.

And when all 14 individual winners had been decided, the fourth-ranked 2A Bobcats began the 2010 side of their schedule by taking 11th at Pagosa Springs' 38th annual Rocky Mountain Invitational.

Behind champions Chance Wyatt (215 pounds) and Casey Haga (4-0 at 130), Ignacio compiled 90 points, nine behind 3A Bayfield and 11.5 behind 4A Aztec, N.M. Defending Colorado 3A champions Centauri (La Jara) amassed 176 to take the title, with 5A Air Academy (Colorado Springs) second with 151.5.

Utah's defending 1A state champs, Monticello, were third with 145, Bloomfield (N.M., 3A) followed with 143.5, and 4A Widefield earned 127. Espanola Valley (N.M., 4A) took sixth with 117.5, 5A Durango was seventh with 116, and the host Pirates were eighth with 114.

For Ignacio, Jeff Herrera, who entered as On The Mat's No. 4 at 125 pounds, took seventh in a loaded division. Heavyweight Jared Ruybal also took seventh, and Derrick Naranjo was eighth at 160. Alex Pena took his first loss this season at 119, falling by 16-0 technical fall to Centauri's Ben Polkowske in a clash of 2A's No. 1 versus 3A's No. 2. But he didn't dwell on defeat for long, and bounced right back to save third place.

The end is near for Bloomfield's Adrian Eaton as Ignacio's Ethan Pearson puts extra squeeze into this hold last Saturday in Pagosa Springs. Pearson indeed pinned the 2009 New Mexico state runner-up Bobcat at 145 pounds to help the team's cause.

Micah Keys 10-8, according to Pagosa head coach Dan Janowsky, and Wyatt took just 27 seconds to stick Espanola Valley's Ryan Gurule. And though Wyatt was pin-perfect – three for three – once again in a tournament, he was somehow not named Outstanding Wrestler in the upper weights. Centauri's Iver Sandoval was, while Polkowske was the lower weights' honoree.

LOWER FINALS: 103: Rudy Peterson (Durango) 13-3 over Ethan Coombs (Centauri); 112: Frank Vigil (Air) 4-2 over C.J. Hamby (Durango); 119: Polkowske pins Chad Snell (Bloomfield) in 1:27; 125: Derrick Pringle (Aztec) pins Dino Gipson (Espanola Valley) in 4:01; 135: C.J. Cordasco (Monticello) 2-1 over Mikey Loy (Bloomfield); 140: Brenner Hill (Air) 15-0 over Justin Shupe (Bayfield).

UPPER FINALS: 145: Mariano

Montoya (Espanola Valley) 8-0 over Taylor Swanemyr (Bayfield); 152: Sandoval 17-8 over Airon Velasquez (Bayfield); 160: Waylon Lucero (Pagosa Springs) pins Jordan Hamilton (Centauri) in 3:55; 171: D.J. Hightower (Widefield) 4-2 over Jordan Neulieb (Pagosa Springs); 189: M.J. Wagstaff (Monticello) 6-3 over Rip Price (Air); HWT: Vincent Chacon (Centauri) pins Terrell Stanley (Widefield) in 3:58.

FUNDRAISER: Need extra wheels to get around this winter? The Ignacio Wrestling Club will be raffling off a set at 3 p.m. during the Jan. 30 Butch Melton Ignacio Invitational. Purchased from Fun Center in Durango, up for grabs at $20 per ticket will be a 2008 Suzuki King Quad 750 EFI 4x4 ATV. Tickets can be bought from any Club member or by calling Stephanie at 970-759-7731 or Shasta at 970-946-2927.

'Cats Show Sharpened Claws to DC

By Joel Priest
Special to the Drum

Truth is, indeed, often stranger than fiction.

And last Saturday the truth left the league's heavyweights feeling more Dazed and Confused than their usual Dove and Creek. Oh sure, Dove Creek booked another win, but not nearly in the way they – and any San Juan Basin League hoops head – would have expected.

For after senior Summer Davis clanked a pair of foul shots with 0:01 remaining, their hosts still had one last hope. And the way things had unraveled for the tenth-ranked 1A Lady Bulldogs in the third and fourth quarters, it wouldn't have been unreasonable to believe in a Hail Mary heave.

Problem was, the only player with enough arm strength to throw the ball three-fourths the length of the court wore blue instead of white. Best thing was, Sonja Strong had already fouled out 3:14 earlier.

So even though the desperation attempt was nowhere near close, the 53-51 loss hopefully showed their faithful that the Ignacio Lady Bobcats are committed to making 2010 truly a "new" year.

"It's going to help our confidence a lot," said Ignacio freshman Michelle Simmons, "knowing we can come back from that far down – against a team like that – and only lose by two."

To nobody's surprise, the holiday down time showed for Ignacio against the bigger, taller Lady Bulldogs, who stormed out to a 10-0 lead before senior Arianna Weaver buried a three. Dove Creek allowed only a Sara Hutchinson free throw the rest of the quarter, however, and led 14-4 after eight minutes with Strong a nonfactor by apparent design.

Ignacio's Mariah Vigil began the second with an inside basket, but Strong made her presence known again by answering with an immediate four-point play, coldly connecting on a three and swishing the foul shot. After an Ignacio miss, the ball found its way to Strong again, and she nailed another triple from the opposite wing. Junior Kyli Banks then crashed hard inside for two more and the Dove Creek lead swelled to 23-6.

The Lady 'Cats finally cracked double digits with 2:44 before halftime, when Rylie Jefferson went inside to cut the lead to 27-11, and sophomore Carley Hutchinson canned a pull-up inside of 20 seconds left to keep Ignacio at least in the building, although down 29-15 through 16 minutes.

But the confidence in the shot hinted that something was brewing, and it only would get hotter as Dove Creek (6-1, 4-0 San Juan Basin League) cooled.

Junior Rose Mirabal and senior Kristie Ribera hit three-of-four at the stripe to start the third, but Banks and Davis each got a bucket in reply from inside eight feet to keep the lead large at 33-18. But the comeback was officially cued when Sara Hutchinson (eight points) hit a three to pull before the awakened crowd. Save for Ribera and Weaver, the Ignacio players had already played a "junior varsity" game, ripping Dove Creek's reserves 75-28, and all had gone through an intensive morning shootaround in preparation for their first action since Dec. 19.

Two Jefferson free throws after a Nakayla Lestina hoop and a Banks hoop-and-one got the lead down to 47-44. And even after Banks, relentless in the paint with a game-high 17 points, swished two more free throws with her unique jump-shot style, Jefferson (nine points) responded with a long deuce from the left corner that most fans thought was a three-pointer.

Full-court pressure, spearheaded by Simmons (eight points), produced one final push capped by a Mirabal layout off a Simmons no-look bounce pass through the lane. Simmons came up with a steal just after Dove Creek's inbounds pass, but was called for a reaching foul just as controversial as Strong's fifth – a standing rejection of an Ignacio shot, while taking a charge – had been.

Strong finished with 14 points, and senior Kayla Pribble added 13 – seven in the first-quarter outburst – for Dove Creek, who received just five points from its bench players. Ignacio (1-3, 1-3 SJB) received 17, led by Ribera's eight and Carley Hutchinson's five.

"I like the way our cards are stacked," said head coach Brice Searles. "The girls had gone through a pretty tumultuous week, and I'm proud of them for playing hard as they did."

Ignacio hits the road this week-end against Mancos (Jan. 15) and Telluride (Jan. 16), then returns for the non-league showdown against Pine River Valley rivals Bayfield on Jan. 19.

Ignacio back to 33-21.

Carley Hutchinson later answered a Strong try – her last basket as it would turn out – with one herself to cut the lead to 42-30. Ribera hit a free throw with 2:10 left to get the deficit back down to ten, 42-32, and Ignacio closed the quarter with Simmons' four-of-six at the foul line and a slick double-clutch layup from freshman Pam Cotton. The 11-0 run had shrank Dove Creek's lead to just 42-38.

And even if the Lady 'Cats were tired, their adrenaline wouldn't let them show it Ignacio's Mariah Vigil (33) stretches to snare a rebound away from Dove Creek senior Summer Davis during last Saturday's battle inside IHS Gymnasium. The Lady Bobcats took the No. 10 1A Lady Bulldogs down to the wire in a 53-51 loss, their first game of 2010.

IJHS Girls Earn Super Second

The Ignacio Junior High girls' "A" team finished their 2009 season with a solid 12-2 record. Both losses came against Norwood, the latter in the finale of the six-team SJBL Tournament held at IJHS. Ignacio defeated Dolores 23-13 to reach the championship, but fell to NJHS 31-23. Head coach Justa Whitt was impressed with her team's play, noting the contribution of several players promoted from the "B" squad (). Back row, l-r: Linda Hovland, Hailey Benevidez, Roshae Weaver, Shea Hanna, Whitt, Bailey Hutchinson, Cloe Seibel, Angela Herrera, Gabriella Garcia. Front row: Malli Benevidez, Christianne Valdez*, Aspen Smith*, Elle Seibel*, July Stricherz*, Marillee Cotton (sitting).

Ignacio's Cloe Seibel gets no free passage to the hoop against Dolores during the SJBL Junior High Tournament semifinals last month at IJHS. The host team finished their season with a 12-2 overall record and runner-up finish.

Lakes Landscape Travel Management Plan Implemented

Media Release
San Juan Public Lands Center

New regulations have been finalized for changes in motorized use on the Columbine Ranger District as outlined in the Lakes Landscape Travel Management Plan. The Lakes Landscape consists of National Forest lands surrounding Lemon and Vallecito reservoirs, including areas east of the Missionary Ridge, west of the Piedra area and south of the Weminuche Wilderness boundary. The plan improves management of motorized-vehicle use on National Forest lands as required by the U.S. Forest Service Travel Management Rule. The travel management changes will not affect over-snow vehicles, such as snowmobiles.

A special order has been put in place requiring motorized vehicles to stay on designated roads and trails, which means that cross-country motorized travel is no longer allowed in the Middle Mountain and East Florida areas.

Motorized travel on trails in these areas is now allowed only where signs have been posted indicating motorized use is appropriate. In addition, forest roads and trails open to motorized uses may be restricted to specific types of use, such as motorcycles, vehicles less than or equal to 50 inches in width, or highway-legal vehicles.

Site-specific changes in the Lakes Travel Management Area include the following:

The Middle Mountain Road above Tuckerville remains open to motorized travel to the parking area below the overlook, but motorized use is no longer allowed past this point. Visitors can access the overlook via a short hike. This same section will be seasonally closed to motor vehicles from Dec. 1 to June 16 to protect bighorn sheep winter habitat and lambing seasons. Seasonal closures on other roads and trails in the Lakes Landscape have also been revised, and those closure dates vary.

The last 0.6 miles of the Red Creek Road is closed to motorized use. A parking area will be constructed at the new closure location to allow parking for foot access to hiking trails.

The last 1.5 miles of the Runlett Park Trail has been closed to motorized use.

All-terrain vehicles and unlicensed motorcycles are not allowed on East Vallecito Road (FR 603) and Florida Road (FR 596) between Florida and Transfer Park campgrounds. Only highway-legal vehicles can use these sections of road. Off-highway vehicles, including ATVs and motorcycles, will continue to be allowed on all other open Forest roads in the Lakes Landscape.

All of these regulations are illustrated on a new travel map available free to the public at the Columbine Ranger Station in Bayfield and the San Juan Public Lands Center in Durango. Violators risk federal fines and citations. For more information, call 970-884-2512.

CCIA Ernest House Jr. Resigns

Mike-teguvan! (Hello, my friends!)

It's with mixed emotions that I announce my departure as executive secretary of the Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs. I have accepted a new and exciting challenge as the director of governmental affairs for the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce and my last official day will be Jan. 22. I have cherished the opportunity to be a voice on Indian Affairs issues within Colorado, and I will always be forever grateful for that opportunity. My wife and I have also recently found out that she is pregnant, so 2010 will definitely come with big changes (no pun intended).

To say that I loved my job was an understatement. It was more of an obsession than a profession, and I owe the great relationship between Colorado's American Indian community and the state to each of you. My work first as an intern and then five years as executive secretary has taught me more than I ever hoped for during my tenure. To be able to be an advocate for my Tribe and others will always be a highlight throughout my career and an experience I will always take with me.

It has been an honor to be afforded the many opportunities to work with various conferences, groups and organizations to find solutions and agreements on issues facing our statewide American Indian community. I would like to thank the leadership and mentoring of those I have worked for and with under the Office of Lieutenant Governor. These individuals continue to show their hard work and dedication to the citizens of Colorado. I will be working with the Lieutenant Governor's Office and the CCIA Budget/Personnel Committee on a smooth transition and search to find the best candidate for the executive secretary position.

I believe we have made huge gains in Colorado for the first and continuous residents of Colorado. Together, we changed the stereotypical perception and outlook of the American Indian citizen, community and culture. These gains will only add to the strong foundation of the Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs.

Again, thank you for your time, commitment, and continued support for American Indian issues in Colorado.

Towaoc! (Thank you!)

Ernest House Jr.
Executive Secretary,
Colorado Commission of Indian Affairs

Walkers Give Thanks

On behalf of Father's Voices and the Buckskin family, we would like to give thanks to all those who helped in making the Saa Swanis-hiswaqs Memorial New Years Day Sobriety Walk a success. We would first like to thank all the participants who braved the frosty morning weather and the challenging 10-mile walk to bring in the New Year in a good way on Jan. 1. We would like to thank Three Springs for donating the water; Don Howe for use of his home during one of our rest stops; Southern Ute Higher Education for the use of their building for our meal; SUPD and Los Pinos EMT; Clarence Smith and Blenda Ortiz for the use of their vehicles; Miracle, Oolcu and Brittney for driving; the Fort Lewis Buffalo Society for providing the buffalo and elk meat for the stew; and those who provided drinks for the meal.

The Buckskin family would also like to express our gratitude to Nova Dean Burch for providing the bread for the walkers. We have been grateful to be able to collaborate with Father's Voices and other community members to keep not only the memory of a dedicated community-oriented man, Saa Swanis-hiswaqs, strong, but also the many things he was dedicated to during his life, including building and maintaining unity and awareness in Native American Indian communities. Thank you all to have participated in the walk throughout the years.

To all our relations,
The Buckskin family

Memories and Wishes...

Happy Birthday
Krislynn Nikole Thompson
On January 24th

From the time you were born, you've been precious to me and have brought me such joy as a mother, I'll cherish forever my memories of you growing up from one year to another... Your kindhearted ways, your gifts, and your talents have made me as proud as can be, And, just as important, the bond that's between us has always meant so much to me... I feel very fortunate having a daughter like you, And deep in my heart, I love you and wish you the best every day and throughout your life. I've sent a lucky birthday star, shooting through the skies to you so close your eyes... make a wish... and may all your birthday dreams come true.

With love your, Mom
Happy Birthday My Dear Daughter!

Happy Birthday Velma 1/6!
Happy Birthday Keelyn 1/7!

10 QUESTIONS MINUTES

TO DEFINE WHO WE ARE AS A NATION

The Census: A Snapshot

- What: The census is a count of everyone residing in the United States.
- Who: All U.S. residents must be counted—both citizens and non citizens.
- When: You will receive your questionnaire in March 2010 either by U.S. mail or hand delivery. Some people in remote areas will be counted in person.
- Why: The U.S. Constitution requires a national census once every 10 years to count the population and determine the number of seats each state will have in the U.S. House of Representatives.
- How: Households should complete and mail back their questionnaires upon receipt. Households that do not respond may receive a replacement questionnaire in early April. Census takers will visit households that do not return questionnaires to take a count in person.

A Complete Count:
The Importance of Census Data

- Every year, the federal government allocates more than $400 billion to states and communities based, in part, on census data.
- Census data are used to determine locations for retail stores, schools, hospitals, new housing developments and other community facilities.
- Census data determine boundaries for state and local legislative and congressional districts.

2010 Census Questionnaire:
Easy, Important and Safe

- With only 10 questions, the 2010 Census questionnaire takes approximately 10 minutes to complete. Households are asked to provide key demographic information, including: whether a housing unit is rented or owned; the address of the residence; and the names, genders, ages and races of others living in the household.
- By law, the Census Bureau cannot share an individual's responses with anyone, including other federal agencies and law enforcement entities.

CENSUS HISTORY

The first census took place in 1790 to determine the number of seats each state would have in the U.S. House of Representatives. The census also was created to gain a better understanding of where people lived and to establish patterns of settlement as the nation grew.

ABOUT THE CENSUS BUREAU

The Census Bureau was established in 1902. Today, in addition to administering the census of population and housing, the Census Bureau conducts more than 200 annual surveys, including the American Community Survey, the Current Population Survey and economic censuses every five years.

We move forward when you send it back.

2010 Census Key Dates

- February - March 2010
Census questionnaires are mailed or delivered to households.
- March - April 2010
Be Counted program is implemented. Census questionnaires are available at select public sites for individuals who did not receive one by mail.
- April 1, 2010
CENSUS DAY
- May - July 2010
Census takers visit households that did not return a questionnaire by mail.
- Dec. 31, 2010
By law, the Census Bureau delivers population counts to the President.
- March 2011
By law, the Census Bureau completes delivery of redistricting data to states.

Frequently Asked Questions

- Q. Who should fill out the census questionnaire?
A. The individual in whose name the housing unit is owned or rented should complete the questionnaire on behalf of every person living in the residence, including relatives and non-relatives.
- Q. How will the 2010 Census differ from previous censuses?
A. In 2010, every residence will receive a short questionnaire of just 10 questions. More detailed socioeconomic information previously collected through the decennial census will be asked of a small percentage of the population through the annual American Community Survey. To learn more about the American Community Survey, visit www.census.gov.
- Q. How are census data used?
A. Census data determine the number of seats each state will have in the U.S. House of Representatives. Census data also can help determine the allocation of federal funds for community services, such as school lunch programs and senior citizen centers, and new construction, such as highways and hospitals.
- Q. What kind of assistance is available to help people complete the questionnaire?
A. 2010 Census questionnaire language assistance guides are available in a variety of languages. Questionnaire Assistance Centers (QAC) will also assist those unable to read or understand the questionnaire. Large-print questionnaires are available to the visually impaired upon request, and a Teletext Device for the Deaf (TDD) program will help the hearing impaired. Contact your Regional Census Center for more details about the types of assistance available and for QAC locations.
- Q. How does the Census Bureau count people without a permanent residence?
A. Census Bureau workers undertake extensive operations to take in-person counts of people living in group quarters, such as college dormitories, military barracks, nursing homes and shelters, as well as those who have been displaced by natural disasters.

For more information about the 2010 Census, go to 2010census.gov.

Southern Ute Indian Tribal Member Internship Opportunity - Restaurant Operations Intern "Digs Market Café"

Opportunity to join the experienced restaurant team at the recently opened Digs Market Café (opened in April of 2009) in Three Springs. Todd and Kellie Stevens are the owners of Digs Market Café and are currently involved with three other restaurants (two in Pagosa Springs, Colorado and one in Houston, Texas). Todd and Kellie have been in the restaurant business for over 20 years and have a wealth of knowledge and experience in the restaurant/service industry. This opportunity will allow a tribal member to work and train with Todd and Kellie and their experienced managers in all aspects of restaurant operations.

Position Description: Digs Market Café in Three Springs, Durango is looking for a Southern Ute Tribal Member to work as a restaurant operations trainee. Responsibilities will include work assignments in and exposure to all aspects of the restaurant's operation including: Bar Training (beer/wine knowledge), Basic Business (profit/loss analysis, revenue generation, expense controls - exposure to QuickBooks accounting software), Bus Staff, Cashier, Host(ess), Catering (sales, service), Cook/Line Cook, Marketing, Front of House (FOH) Management (ordering, scheduling, bookkeeping), Kitchen Management (ordering, scheduling), Server.

Goal: The goal of this internship is to provide a tribal member with a strong base of experience and knowledge in restaurant management and operations. To Start Immediately. Initially the position will be approximately a six month internship, although the term could be modified based upon the particular interest of the intern. For example, if an in-depth understanding of kitchen operations is desired the term would need to be longer - possibly twelve months. After the initial internship, long term employment would be a possibility based upon the interest of the tribal member, their performance during the internship and the needs of the business. Digs Market Café is open for lunch and dinner Monday through Friday and dinner on Saturday. Specific working hours will be negotiated and can be structured to meet the particular needs of the tribal member. 40 hours per week or as agreed. $7.50 hour. Outstanding "hands-on" training and experience.

Qualifications: 18 years of age or older, High School Diploma or GED (transcripts required), Previous restaurant experience would be helpful - but not required.

Additional Requirements: Acceptable attendance and performance are necessary for the internship to continue. All interns will be managed in the same manner as other employees and will be subject to the same rules and policies as other employees of Digs Market Café.

Essay: Please provide a minimum 400 word (approximately two page) essay along with your application describing why you want to work in the restaurant/service industry.

How To Apply: Application available at Digs Market Café in Three Springs.

Walking Into 2010 "In a Good Way" With Sobriety Walk

The Saa Swanis-hiswaqs Memorial New Years Sobriety Walk ushered in 2010 with 20 participants taking to the road as a way of bringing in the new year in a "good way" on Jan. 1st. Clockwise from top left: Cynthia Buckskin shows off her "frosty" highlights at the first rest stop (2.5 miles) of the first leg of the walk. The walkers on the first leg just south of the new Mexico/Colorado state-line, all bundled and weathering the winter morning chill. The final downhill slope of the "End of the Trail" road, just before the walk ended at the Ouray Memorial Cemetery just east of Ignacio. Brandon Mills, in the blue jacket led the walkers into the final reststop, (8.5 miles) at the Sky Ute Events Center on CR 151, as the walkers entered town many drivers waved and smiled. The Buckskin Family, (l-r) Brian, Oolcu, Mamakwa, Cynthia and Keyana were all smiles finishing the walk and carrying on what Saa-sawanis Hiswaqs began some 23 years ago, along with his vision of an alcohol free American Indian Community.

Members of Ignacio's education community enjoy a game of bowling during the Southern Ute Education Department's first-ever New Year's bowling social. About 120 parents, teachers and other school staff turned out for the games, free food and door prizes. Vice President Toby Roderick of the Ignacio School Board, above at left, said he appreciated the chance to interact with parents outside of school.
