Southern Utes react to first lady's visit

By Ace Stryker
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

First lady Michelle Obama's Wednesday, Oct. 10 speech at Fort Lewis College drew mostly positive reviews from Southern Ute tribal members, who lauded her energy and focus on voting but felt she didn't address much specific to Indian Country.

"I thought that it was really cool that she came to a small place," said Tribal Council Media Coordinator Beth Santistevan. "I really admire her charisma and her character."

What the speech lacked, though, was any kind of statement on minority issues — including Native American issues, she said.

Youth Employment Coordinator Alex Cloud agreed, saying the oversight seems to be a recurring theme in this year's political campaigns.

"Native American issues haven't been touched on. ... She didn't mention anything about that," he said. "It would have been nicer to hear more of those kinds of things."

Nevertheless, Cloud said he enjoyed the speech overall — and that it was a special message.

"She gives the aura of 'I'm here for you,'" Borst said. "What I look for is the genuine, and I really feel Mrs. Obama is genuine."

Borst said Obama seems to have a special connection with the country's youth. The first lady has made youth fitness a priority during her tenure, most notably through programs such as Let's Move, an initiative targeting youth obesity by extolling the virtues of nutrition and physical activity. "She has ignited in many children that want to see what

Students are among the first to dig in during the groundbreaking ceremony on Thursday, Oct. 11 for the new Ignacio Jr. High School, which will be located just west of the current Ignacio Intermediate School. Local families, school district employees, school board members, architects and construction crewmembers were present for the occasion.

Southern Ute Indian Tribal Council Chairman Jimmy R. Newton Jr. offered a blessing to open the groundbreaking ceremony. Construction on the school is slated to finish in time for a fall 2013 opening, according to Superintendent Rocco Fuschetto.

Jeremy Wade Shockley/SU Drum

"The Real History of the Americas" was a daylong celebration of art, culture and dance coinciding with Columbus Day on Monday, Oct. 8 at Fort Lewis College in Durango. The event aimed to dispel the myth that depicts European settlers as having "discovered" America. The student body chose to celebrate its indigenous roots by bringing in guest speakers and artisans from across Indian Country, as well as other minority groups.

NEWS IN BRIEF

AGRICULTURAL LAND MANAGERS NOTICE

The Water Quality Program for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe is now accepting applications for the 2013 Cost-share Program. The Cost-share Program is aimed at land managers living within the exterior boundaries of the Southern Ute Indian Reservation on the Animas, Florida and Pine watersheds who are interested in implementing Best Management Practices (BMPs) for more efficient irrigation and/or riparian protection/improvements. The majority of costs are covered by the tribe through conservation agreements in which BMPs such as surface gated pipe, underground pipe and inlet structures, or riparian fencing are implemented. Such BMPs limit return flows from irrigated land and restore/protect critical riparian zones, thus decreasing erosion and other pollutants into our local watersheds. Call project coordinator Pete Nylander at 970-563-0135 for more information.

SEARCH-AND-RESCUE CARDS AVAILABLE

The Colorado Outdoor Recreation Search-and-Rescue card is a means to voluntarily participate in funding the cost of missions, training and equipment for search-and-rescue efforts in Colorado. In the event a cardholder is lost or injured in the backcountry, the county sheriff will be reimbursed through COSAR fund for the cost of a search-and-rescue mission for that person. In La Plata County, CORSAR cards are available anywhere state hunting and fishing licenses are sold. The card may be purchased for $3 for one year or $12 for five years. You may also purchase the card online at www.dola.colorado.gov/corsar_order/order_instructions.jsf. Individuals with a current state hunting or fishing license, or boat, snowmobile or ATV registration, are automatically covered by the CORSAR fund. Southern Ute hunters and anglers should be aware that obtaining a tribal hunting or fishing permit does not automatically extend CORSAR coverage. Tribal-permitted hunters and anglers should consider purchasing CORSAR cards through local vendors, especially if using remote locations in the off-reservation Brunot Treaty Area. For more info, call the La Plata County Sheriff's Office at 970-382-6274.

FREE BISON MEAT AVAILABLE TO TRIBAL MEMBERS

The Southern Ute Indian Tribe's Division of Wildlife Resource Management maintains a small herd of bison for the Tribe's ceremonial, cultural and dietary needs. As a service to the tribal membership, the division makes available bison meat to enrolled Southern Ute tribal members free of charge. Tribal bison are grass-fed at low herd density and are free of artificial hormones and other synthetic chemicals. Bison meat is naturally low in cholesterol and an excellent, healthy alternative to beef. If you are an enrolled Southern Ute tribal member interested in obtaining bison meat for personal use, call the Division of Wildlife at 970-563-0130. Quantities and cuts of meat available may be limited.

The Southern Ute Agriculture Division sells bulk produce annually to tribal members, giving them a break from higher food prices. This year's staples include Adobe Milling beans, Red Rose flour, blue cornmeal from Cortez Milling, and farm-fresh potatoes from Monte Vista. This is the largest order in recent memory, according to Administrative Assistant Lou Cundiff. Produce has gone to more than 100 tribal members, with demand continuing to rise. U.S. Justice Dept. announces policy on tribal eagle feather use

Staff report
U.S. JUSTICE DEPT.

The Department of Justice announced a policy Friday, Oct. 12 addressing the ability of members of federally recognized Indian tribes to possess or use eagle feathers, an issue of great cultural significance to many tribes and their members.

Attorney General Eric Holder signed the new policy after extensive consultation with tribal leaders and groups. The policy covers all federally protected birds, bird feathers, and bird parts.

Federal wildlife laws such as the Bald and Golden Eagle Protection Act generally criminalize the killing of eagles and other migratory birds and the possession or commercialization of the feathers and other parts of such birds. These important laws are enforced by the DOJ and the Department of the Interior and help ensure that eagle and other bird populations remain healthy and sustainable.

At the same time, the department recognizes that eagles play a unique and important role in the religious and cultural life of many Indian tribes. Many Indian tribes and tribal members have historically used — and today continue to use — federally protected birds, bird feathers or other bird parts for their tribal cultural and religious expression.

“This policy will help ensure a consistent and uniform approach across the nation to protecting and preserving eagles, and to honoring their cultural and spiritual significance to American Indians,” Holder said. “The Department of Justice is committed to striking the right balance in enforcing our nation’s wildlife laws by respecting the cultural and religious practices of federally recognized Indian tribes with whom the United States shares a unique government-to-government relationship.”

The department is issuing its policy to address the concerns of tribal members who are unsure of how they might be affected by federal wildlife law enforcement efforts, and because of a concern that this uncertainty may hinder or inhibit tribal religious and cultural practices.

The department first announced it was considering formalizing a policy on eagle feathers in October 2011 and sought tribal input at that time. It held formal consultations with tribal leaders in June, July and August 2012.

The DOJ will continue to prosecute tribal members and nonmembers alike for violating federal laws that prohibit the killing of eagles and other migratory birds or the buying or selling of the feathers or other parts of such birds.

The policy expands upon longstanding DOJ practice and DOI policy. It was developed in close coordination with the DOI. The DOJ’s Environment and Natural Resources Division and U.S. attorneys’ offices work closely with the DOI’s U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Bureau of Indian Affairs on enforcement of federal laws protecting birds.

To view the policy, visit www.justice.gov/tribal.

The policy provides that, consistent with the Department of Justice’s traditional exercise of its discretion, a member of a federally recognized tribe engaged only in the following types of conduct will not be subject to prosecution:

- Possessing, using, wearing or carrying federally protected birds, bird feathers or other bird parts (federally protected bird parts);
- Traveling domestically with federally protected bird parts or, if tribal members obtain and comply with necessary permits, traveling internationally with such items;
- Picking up naturally molted or fallen feathers found in the wild, without molesting or disturbing federally protected birds or their nests;
- Giving or loaning federally protected bird parts to other members of federally recognized tribes, without compensation of any kind;
- Exchanging federally protected bird parts for federally recognized tribes, without compensation of any kind;
- Providing the feathers or other parts of federally protected birds to craftspersons who are members of federally recognized tribes to be fashioned into objects for eventual use in tribal religious or cultural activities.

THIS IS YOUR LANGUAGE

'icha-'ara m̄ni 'apaghapi 'ura-'ay

18. Minor word-types

By Tom Givón

UTE LANGUAGE PROGRAM

Nouns, adjectives and verbs are large word-classes. They make up the bulk of the vocabulary we use to describe states and events in our world, to ask questions, or to make requests and commands. But all languages also have word-classes that are much smaller, and strand the continuum between lexicon (“dictionary”) and grammar. In most languages, these minor wordclasses are much less homogeneous or predictable either in their form or their behavior. But they do exist and need to be described, however briefly.

18.1. ADVERBS

Ute adverbs are extremely heterogenous in both form and meaning. Some are independent words; the vast majority are prefixed to the verbal word. We will survey briefly some of the more common types.

18.1.1. TIME ADVERBS

Most time-adverbs in Ute are independent words. Some of the more common ones are:

- (1) 'áav̄ 'now,' 'áa-ravay 'today,' w̄ichkus 'tomorrow,' k̄úaw 'yesterday,' tá-táavay 'every day,' t̄úsapa 'always,' s̄ávaru 'Saturday,' tumiikukh 'Sunday,' t̄em̄-m̄ua-tagho-ch̄i 'December' ('winter month'), 'ichay t̄em̄-t̄u 'this year,' namu-t̄em̄-t̄u 'last year,' p̄ina-t̄em̄-t̄u 'next year,' tava-mawisi-t̄u 'sunrise,' tava-yáakwi-t̄u 'sunset,' togho-tavay 'noon'

Other time adverbs are complex words that also function as inter-clausal connectives (“conjunctions”). Some of those are:

- (2) p̄ina-khw̄a 'later on' (lit. 'follow-go') p̄ina-khw̄a-'ura 'so later on' (lit. 'later-go-be')
'u-vway-akh-'ura 'so then' (lit. 'there-at-it-be') togho-sapa-ura 'consequently,' 'because of that'
'úni-guni 'all of a sudden' náagha-tu-p̄u 'seldom' náagha-tu-paa-t̄u 'very rarely' náagha-tu-p̄u-ravay 'some day' náagha-tu-p̄u-vwaa-t̄u 'some time'

18.1.2. MANNER ADVERBS

Manner adverbs enrich the meaning of the verb, further specifying the manner of the action or event. Few of them are independent words, such as:

- (3) 'átu 'well,' suwa 'almost,' 'ava'na-t̄u 'much,' t̄uvuchi 'very,' m̄ichi 'a bit,' navas̄ 'just,' t̄úuravas̄i 'in vain'

But the vast majority are either noun, adjective, verb or adverb stems incorporated as pre-fixes in front of the verb. This process of pre-verbal incorporation is a central feature of Ute grammar. Some examples of this pattern are:

- (3) a. p̄úka-wúuka-y (adverb stem: p̄úka-)
hard-work-y
'(s/he) is working hard'
- b. 'áa-'apagha-mi (adjective: 'áa-gha-r̄u 'new,' 'young,' 'gentle')
gentle-speak-HAB
'(s/he) speaks gently'
- c. mama-paghay-mi (noun: mama-ch̄i 'woman')
woman-walk-HAB
'(he) walks like a woman'
- d. saku-paghay-'way (verb: saku-y 'limping')
limp-walk-IMM
'(s/he) walks limping'

18.1.3. EPISTEMIC ADVERBS

Epistemic adverbs express the degree of certainty, truth or probability that the speaker assigns to his/her statements. In Ute such adverbs are few, and are independent words. But the grammar of Ute is rich in other means for expressing the same notions, especially the modal suffixes associate with the tense-aspect system. Independent words in this class are, for example:

- (4) náagha 'maybe'
t̄uvuchi 'truly,' 'very'

18.2. INTERJECTIONS

Every language has some interjections that are hard to classify grammatically. Their function, most commonly, has to do with the interaction between speaker and hearer. Some examples of common Ute interjections are:

- (5) affirmation or negation:
'u 'yes' (I agree to what you said)
'áy 'yes' (I heard you, you've got my attention)
'úvway 'okay' (lit. 'then') kách 'no' common greetings:

- m̄áyki 'hi,' 'hello'
m̄áyki t̄uguvu-n 'howdy my friend'
m̄achaa 'hi'
'ip̄u 'iniki?' 'what are you doing?'
'agha-'ara-m? 'how are you?'

common responses:

- toghoy-aqh 'it's good,' 'thank you'
toghoyi-n 'I'm fine'
kachi-n 'nothing in particular,' 'I'm doing nothing' navas pagha-'ni 'I'm just hanging out'

taking leave:

- 'uvusa-gha 'goodbye' (lit.: 'finished')
p̄ágha-n̄ukwi-chaa-n 'I'm taking off' p̄unikya-vaa-ch̄i '(I) will see (you)'
p̄unikya-vaa-chi-m '(I) will see you'
p̄unikya-gha-paa-chi-am̄ '(we) will see you-guys'

In the next column we will discuss the last minor word-classes – demonstrative, articles and pronouns.

'uvusa-gha, toghoy-aqh.

KIDNEY CORNER

Cranberry and the kidney

By Dr. Mark Saddler
DURANGO NEPHROLOGY
ASSOCIATES

"A friend told me that eating cranberries is good for my kidneys. Is this true?"

Many "alternative," or herbal, medicines are taken by people worldwide. It's estimated that 17 percent of Americans take some form of nonconventional medicines, and Americans spend about $5 billion per year on these medicines.

It's important to understand that the makers of these products are not required to demonstrate efficacy for treating any specific condition before they're sold. This is in contrast to conventional medicines, which are tightly regulated by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, required to show therapeutic benefit in a clinical trial, and subject to strict quality control in their manufacture.

Many people feel alternative medicines are safe because they're often made from natural ingredients, and have often been used for a long time as traditional treatments for various illnesses. But these natural products can have significant side effects, as we shall see in future editions of the Kidney Corner.

To return to the question: Is there benefit to cranberries? Yes, cranberries can be helpful in preventing urine infections.

To understand how this works, we need to review the mechanisms of urine infection. The bladder is a fascinating and underrated organ! It has to be able to expand dramatically like a balloon while preventing any of the toxins in the urine from leaking through its walls back into the bloodstream.

Additionally, it's under frequent attack from bacteria that have the potential to enter the bladder from the urethra (the tube through which urine is expelled). Urine infections are more common in women than men because the urethra is shorter in women.

Fortunately, the process of urination usually flushes any bacteria out. For bacteria to be able to thrive in the bladder, they need to be able to stick to the inside of the bladder wall. This is where cranberry comes in: It reduces the ability of bacteria to adhere to the bladder so they tend to be washed out with urination.

Well-conducted clinical studies of cranberries in patients with urine infections show a benefit in preventing urine infections. Cranberries are therefore sometimes used in clinical practice in patients who have a tendency toward recurring urine infections.

Cranberry is usually not sufficient treatment for patients who have an established infection; usually antibiotics are needed to clear the infection initially. It's also important to note that, contrary to some people's belief, cranberry has not been shown to preserve kidney function, and it does have the potential of increasing an individual's risk of developing kidney stones.

The benefits of cranberry can be realized by drinking cranberry juice (8 to 16 ounces per day; look for pure unsweetened juice), or by taking cranberry tablets, which can be obtained at health food stores.

In future editions of the Kidney Corner, we will address another common type of drink that can be used to prevent kidney stones (can you guess what it is?), and we will also discuss a cautionary tale of an alternative medicine that was recently shown to cause kidney failure.

NATIONAL NATIVE AFFAIRS

Violence Against Women Act reauthorization a no-brainer

By Tim Heydinger
SU PUBLIC DEFENDER'S OFFICE

Unfortunately, the U.S. Congress seems to be at an impasse.

Statistics show that nearly one-third of all Native American women will be victims of domestic violence at some point in their life. This is the highest rate among any racial or ethnic group.

The majority of the perpetrators, according to U.S. Department of Justice statistics, are non-Native; some statistics suggest the proportion is as high as 70 percent. Because tribal courts have no jurisdiction over non-Natives, prosecution is left to the state or federal government, which for whatever reason frequently does not file charges.

Given these realities, it only seems proper that tribes should be allowed to prosecute those who commit crimes of domestic violence against their Native American partners on a reservation. Here is where, at least in part, VAWA reauthorization is stuck.

Last April, the Senate passed Senate Bill 1925, the VAWA Reauthorization Act. The bill proposed to give to tribes the power to prosecute non-Natives who commit crimes of domestic violence against their Native American partners on a reservation.

The proposed scope of a tribe's criminal jurisdiction over non-Natives was extremely limited; it would only apply to crimes of domestic violence committed against a Native American partner.

Unfortunately, the House of Representatives found itself unable to pass the Senate version of the VAWA Reauthorization Act. The House simply was unwilling to give tribes any measure of criminal jurisdiction over non-Native perpetrators. As a result, the Senate version of VAWA does not include the expanded jurisdiction provisions.

Native women are in need of the protections afforded by VAWA. Given the high rate of domestic violence on reservations, and given the high percentage of non-Native individuals perpetrating those crimes, tribes should be allowed to prosecute those who commit these crimes that tear at the fabric of Native life.

To provide an avenue wherein such crimes go unprosecuted, simply because the alleged perpetrator is non-Native, defeats the very purposes for which the VAWA was enacted.

IHS FOOTBALL

Cats get urgent win v. Center, improve to 2-5

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

“Workhorse” is a common tag in gridiron-speak for a hard-working, dependable, hard-to-stop ball carrier — most often, by position, a running back.

Center High’s Gustavo Nungaray proved to be exactly that in a must-win contest on Friday, Oct. 12 at Ignacio High School Field; much of the time, he seemed the only one pulling his side’s weighted wagon. But boss Lee Flood’s major mistake that night was to try and modernize — via the air — the delivery process.

Virtually unstoppable on sweeping runs around left end, Nungaray suddenly was denied the ball and a Ryan Perrin pass was the call with just over 7 minutes left to play.

Stepping up into a collapsing pocket, Perrin threw into double coverage over the middle. After a shining deflection by IHS senior Austin Haire, the wounded duck was pulled down at the IHS 41 by sophomore Adison Jones — the Bobcats’ quarterback, pressed into two-way play due to dwindling personnel numbers.

With 6:52 left and Center’s momentum toward erasing a five-point deficit coldly disrupted, Ignacio went back to work whittling down the scoreboard clock. But after three Isaac Pena runs and one by Clayton Jefferson, Jones threw incomplete on fourth down and the Vikings regained possession at their own 24 with 4:26 remaining.

Fans along both sidelines knew what was coming. Center looked to similar clock-killing thinking to leave the locals little time to respond should the visitors get the go-ahead touchdown. Nungaray was summoned the first four snaps, gaining 26 yards out to midfield. Fullback Jeremiah Moreno then gained a yard to give the beast a breather, and Nungaray then pushed the ball to the Bobcat 42 on two more of his incredible 46 carries (yielding 259 yards).

Two more runs, one by each Viking, followed, and gained the 38 — but a pass was signaled next in the march. Big mistake: Perrin (5-of-9, 29 yards) was fortunate to survive a vicious shot from defensive end Blaine Mickey, forcing an incompletion.

“You’ve just got to hit that hole, and you’ve got to want it,” he said afterward. “Got to be thinking of the team first instead of yourself. Can’t be worried about what you’re going to get. You’ve got to know what you’re doing better for the rest of these guys, to where we can get the ball and can score.”

Ignacio’s Isaac Pena (24) runs into the open, away from Center’s Jeremiah Moreno (20) and others, during Ignacio’s 18-13 victory over the Vikings on Friday, Oct. 12.

“That’s a big motivational pushover for us because Centauri whooped us, you know,” Pena noted of Ignacio’s defensive recovery from the previous week’s 48-8 beating dealt by the Falcons. “And knowing that they put up points against Centauri, and we stopped them ... real proud of our defense.”

Facing fourth-and-long, Perrin was again pressed to pass. And though he connected with blocking back Justin Wilson down to the IHS 31, the six-yarder was much too short. With just 1:27 left, Ignacio had but to run three plays to nail down an 18-13 triumph in 1A Southern Peaks Conference action.

“Against Centauri, something just didn’t click. We weren’t all there,” Joe Herrera said. “Tonight, everybody stuck together in the locker room, everybody talked together, and ... came out with a bang, ended with a bang.”

The fireworks began in earnest for the Cats (2-5, 1-2 SPC) during a 4-minute, 21-second stretch in the second quarter. Three plays after hooking up with Jefferson for a drive-starting 28-yarder, Jones (7-of-21, 142 yards) hit him again for a 26-yard TD to finish the 67-yard series and tie the score at 6-6 with 9:44 before halftime.

Nungaray had capped the game’s first possession — a 9-play (all runs, seven by Nungaray), 64-yard march — with a one-yard plunge and 8:16 remaining in the opening quarter, which ended with CHS (1-6, 0-3) ahead 6-0. Perrin’s two-point conversion pass had failed, as later did Pena’s run attempt.

Bobcat Justin Carver then fell on a Moreno fumble at Ignacio’s 46 with 8:35 before the break, and Ignacio’s resulting seven-play drive ended with Jones hitting Herrera for the score from 25 yards out and 6:46 still left (Jones’ two-point pass try was unsuccessful).

“It’s really special just to be able to come back out,” said the freshman, who’d only been activated before the Centauri game. “It’s been a long six weeks. ... Happy to get back on my feet, do what I do best — play football with my ‘family’ — and get a touchdown, prove to them I hadn’t gone anywhere.”

Asked to step out of the backfield and help shore up the offensive line, Haire — who recovered a fumble on the Vikes’ second series — and the trenchmen helped clear paths for Pena to total 99 yards on 22 carries, though his TD came as a consequence of place and time.

On the eighth play of a 72-yard drive, in immediate reply to Center’s go-ahead 8-play, 53-yarder (ending with a Nungaray score from 17 yards out, then an Adalberto Romero PAT), Jefferson gained two yards on a rush to the goal line—but was stripped of the ball before crossing.

With graduated brother Alex observing at field level, Pena was already in the end zone and ready to celebrate, but had to smother the ball himself. With 2:48 left in the third quarter, the unusual score (sans conversion, however) would eventually stand as the winner.

“Congrats to Ike,” Herrera said. “He’s a good running back ... and he ran the ball very, very well tonight. Did an amazing job. He’s a great accessory to the team.”

“I felt good,” Pena said. “Had faith in the line, and they were blocking good. We worked hard this week and just had to push it, you know? And the line ... [I] couldn’t run through the holes without them.”

Up next for the Bobcats will be a trip to Del Norte’s Speiser Field on Saturday, Oct. 20, with kickoff scheduled for 1 p.m. Having shown an ability to score points (two games of 50 or better) but also give them up in bunches, the Tigers dropped to 3-4 overall and 0-3 in conference after a 34-7 home loss to Centauri on Saturday, Oct. 13.

Ignacio’s 2012 regular season ends Friday, Oct. 26 at 7 p.m. at home against SPC foe Dolores.

“We started the season with a good 42 players, and right now I think we’ve got 20 to 18,” Herrera said. “We’ve just got to deal. This is what we’ve got, the true kids who’ve stuck to the game, wanted to play. And that’s fine. ... We can play ironman. Because together we can play football, get the job done.”

Bobcats Adison Jones (8) and Nick Herrera (85) join in the dogpile on Centauri running back Jareb Aziz (20) during Ignacio’s 48-8 loss to the Falcons on Friday, Oct. 5.

IHS VOLLEYBALL

Spikers notch 11 wins with tourney still to come

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Bringing some of July back into October, the Ignacio Volleycats completed their schedule's most demanding portion — a preseason camp-like four matches in under 72 hours — with an even split to show.

But the wins over Telluride and Ouray, alternating with losses at Dolores and at Norwood, injected a morale boost unknown to the varsity program for years: a double-digit win total.

And the regular season still isn't done; the team's final in-uniform preparations for the San Juan Basin League/District 3 Tournament come at a non-league Friday, Oct. 19 triangular at Center (versus the 2A Lady Vikings and 1A Moffat/Saguache Mountain Valley).

Scores from a straight-sets loss to NHS had not been reported by deadline, but the expected sweep of Ouray's Lady Trojans came by counts of 25-13, 25-10, and 25-18.

Senior Michelle Simmons did her damage with 11 kills and just one error in 16 attacks, and registered seven digs and four service aces. Destinee Lucero put down eight kills, and setter Cloe Seibel distributed 25 assists. Defensively, libero Angela Herrera came up with 14 digs.

Ignacio's rocky road began Thursday night in Dolores, where on Parent Appreciation Night, the Lady Bears did not let the Cats build on a 25-22 Set 3 (after stopping them 25-20 and 25-15) win.

With the score tied at 3-3, DHS junior Elana Bernholtz landed three consecutive aces into the middle of the court, and Ignacio's Ellie Seibel then committed a hitting error to give the hosts a wide lead. The score quickly swelled to 13-5 after a Cloe Seibel roll shot into the net, 17-9 on a Mindy McCracken kill into the deep middle, and 21-11 on a soft tip by senior middle Sam Tate.

One of two towering move-ins from the Colorado Springs Metro League, along with 6-foot-1 junior JV player Ashley Rosenbaugh, the six-footer was used by skipper Gina Hollen primarily as a decoy to take attention away from seniors McCracken and Cydney McHenry. And the plan, despite an Ignacio minirun that shrunk the gap to 23-17, ultimately worked: McHenry pounded down a kill from the left side to take the set 25-19.

Finding similar energy awaiting them inside IHS Gymnasium — on their own Senior/Parent Appreciation Night — the Volleycats (11-6, 7-7 SJBL) rebounded with a postseason-ready fury, though Telluride's Lady Miners showed they'd be ready for a five-set grinder with a 25-21 win in Set 1.

With Simmons heating up toward her final total of 19 kills and Lucero building toward her 13, IHS captured Set 2 25-23 and Set 3 25-17. The defense tightened as well, led by Herrera adding digs toward a solid total of 34 and Cheyenne Cook racking up an amazing nine total blocks, but Telluride forced a Set 5 with a 25-20 win in Set 4.

But seniors Simmons, Lucero, Mariah Vigil and key reserve Santana Abeyta were not to be denied on this night, especially not with JV seniors Ashley Paul, Breana Talamante-Benavidez and Nicole Williams also looking on after trouncing THS themselves in a four-setter.

In winning the tiebreaker 15-11, Ignacio's defense found an extra gear, with freshman defensive specialist Chrystianne Valdez finishing with 13 digs and Lucero ending with 11 for a solid double-double against a Telluride squad that entered tied with Springfield atop the "Receiving Votes" category in the Denver Post's Oct. 8 Class 2A rankings.

nod to her family's middle-class roots.

Lindsay Box, mentor coordinator for the Boys & Girls Club of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe, said Obama's experience as a member of the middle class seems to help her understand the difficulties many Americans face.

"That was really neat to see that it was someone who can relate to the issues that are taking place in the middle class," she said.

Most refreshing for Box, who admits a low tolerance for political mudslinging, is that Obama stuck to touting the benefits of her husband's leadership and avoided attacking Republican nominee Mitt Romney.

"She hit on them in a way that she didn't really seem like she was pushing the politics," she said. "It was engaging to listen to without being too draining."

Southern Ute Tribal Council

ALEX S. CLOUD

Mique, tribal members,

My name is Alex S. Cloud, and I am seeking a seat on Tribal Council. First I want to thank the creator for allowing me to run for a seat on the Tribal Council. I sat on the Tribal Council from 2008 to 2011. Within this time, I learned many things about how the tribe operates, from investments to different policies and codes that govern the tribe.

Being on the Tribal Council is not a one-man show; we have five other tribal council members who make decisions and a tribal chairman and his administration to carry out their actions. This is written in our Tribal Constitution and should be followed, because until changes are made to the Constitution, this is what we follow.

I have worked for the tribe for many years. I worked in the Recreation Division for most of them. I have had the opportunity to get to know many of you and still have many connections with you. I feel that a Tribal Council member should be approachable and never turn away anyone. I was taught to always respect everyone. I felt when I was in office I did that. I want to again do that for the membership.

There are many concerns that affect tribal members today, including culture, employment, education, lands, health, finance, elders, and our future the youth. I know that the Tribal Council has to deal with other agencies at different levels, such as local municipalities, county, state and federal. So there are many discussions that the tribe has to be a part of for the sake of our membership.

If there is one thing that stands out for me, it's how the tribal government communicates to the membership. If I am elected to office, I would like to work on that, because many of you sometimes never hear of programs that can affect you and help you with many of your needs. I feel that communication with membership is a priority so that if an opportunity arises, the membership is notified in a timely manner.

I am a very humble person. After not getting back into office, I did not take much time off; I took the opportunity to come back and work for the tribe and work on a program that employed 40 tribal students to gain good work ethic and help tribal departments get acquainted with our tribal youth.

I would like to thank all of you that have supported me in the past and would like to ask for your support again to serve the membership as tribal councilman for the next 3 years. I have been told by many tribal elders that there no reward bigger than giving back to your people I would like to do that again.

Thank you.

DELBERT D. CUTHAIR JR.

Dear tribal members,

My name is Delbert D. Cuthair Jr. My parents are Veronica Silva and Delbert Cuthair Sr. My maternal grandparents are Mary and Susano Silva. My paternal grandparents are Belle and Curtis Cuthair.

I graduated from Durango Senior High School in 1991. I received my bachelor of arts in computer science from Fort Lewis College in 2005.

I am running for Tribal Council because it has always been a dream of mine to be on Tribal Council to work for and represent all tribal members. I was on the Ignacio town board for a few years, but had to give up my seat because I moved out of the Ignacio town limits.

I have always made my decisions based on the information and facts given to me. I am currently on the KSUT board and really like the different things we have to go through as a board. I have worked for the Permanent Fund since 2005 and I am currently the systems administrator for the Management Information Systems Department.

There are a few reasons I am running for Tribal Council, but I will list my two main concerns. One is that I believe that every council member needs to show up for all required meetings. They need to be there to provide a quorum for each and every decision that will be made for the good of all the people. Each council member should be on time and prepared, meaning that they have gone through their packet and are prepared to ask questions and voice any concerns they may have.

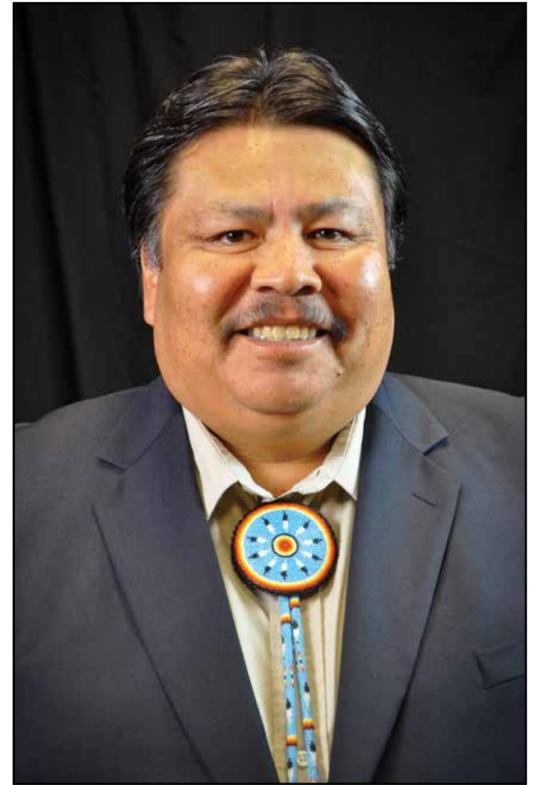

A council member's position is very important, and they should treat it as such by making sure there is always a quorum and always being prepared for all meetings.

Second is that we on the Permanent Fund side are getting ready to start doing cutbacks. This means that 60 jobs over the next 5 years will be cut. With the economy still down, but slowly rising, we need to make sure that we are not going to overspend and be able to stick to our financial budget plan.

But the main thing is that all tribal members should not have to worry about their jobs being in jeopardy. I believe that if a tribal member is in a position to advance to, say, a director position, they should be given that opportunity even if they require training to enhance their skills. No tribal member should be passed over because someone felt they weren't ready.

I believe that the Growth Fund should also find ways to do cutbacks on their side. This means saving money and possibly putting that money into more investments for us tribal members. The bonuses on the Growth Fund side are a little higher than normal as well. There is a bonus system on the Permanent Fund side, and I think something like that should be implemented at the Growth Fund to make sure that bonuses are kept at a reasonable rate for all employees.

Thank you for your consideration, and I hope you will give me a chance to work for you.

VINCE MIRABAL

Maykh pinu nuuchiu! (Greetings, Ignacio Southern Utes!)

My name is Vincenti Mirabal — known to most as Vince. I am a candidate for a seat on Tribal Council, and I want to represent tribal members through dedication, hard work and leadership while in office. If elected, I will bring a positive attitude, enthusiasm, common sense, and a team-first approach to doing what is best for the tribal membership.

I am seeking a seat on Tribal Council because I am proud to be Southern Ute. I want to continue the prosperity the previous tribal councils have afforded us today and to ensure that future generations will continue to benefit. I want to ensure the care of our elders and provide opportunities for employment for those of working age and those that are able.

My desire is to continue to provide the best educational opportunities for our youth, for all tribal members to get a college education or go to a trade school so they may become productive members of society no matter where they reside, on or off the reservation.

I believe I possess knowledge, skills and ability to accept the challenging endeavor of being a Tribal Council member and to contribute toward a better government for our future.

I am a:

- Family man (son, grandson, brother, husband, father, uncle, grandfather)
- Active in Ute culture and traditions
- 26 years ongoing community service to our tribal and nontribal youth
- Former cattle owner
- Founder of Construction Controls Inc. in Ignacio
- Founder of Pine River Construction Inc. in Phoenix
- Lived on and off the Southern Ute Indian Reservation
- Vice president of sales, marketing and quality control for Sky Ute Sand and Gravel
- Descendent of former councilwomen Euterpe Cloud Taylor and Lillian Weaver Seibel.

In closing, the election this year for two council seats is very important to the future of our people, and your vote is your voice to elect new council members how you see fit for our tribal government. I look forward to discussing with you what we believe are important issues facing the Southern Ute Indian Tribe. I humbly ask that you vote for me, Vincenti "Vince" Mirabal.

Tuvuch toghoy-agh (Thank you very much).

statements from your candidates

ADAM RED

Hello fellow tribal members,

My name is Adam Red. I will be running for Tribal Council in this upcoming tribal election.

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to you. I was born in Durango to the late Bryce Red and Rosemary Aiken. I was raised in Ignacio and graduated from Ignacio High School in 1995. In 1998, I married Maria Pardo, and we have two daughters: Sierra, 7; and McKayla, who is 2.

After graduating from high school, I worked for the Southern Ute Wildlife Department for 10 years. I was unemployed during the summer months, as well as winter breaks, while also attending college at the University of Northern Colorado. I graduated from college in 2005 with a bachelor's degree in geography and a minor in multicultural anthropology.

Upon returning to Ignacio, I worked with the Southern Ute Tribal Rangers. I am currently employed with the Southern Ute Growth Fund's Department of Energy, where I hold the position of GIS specialist. I am a football coach at Ignacio High School and have held that position for 5 years.

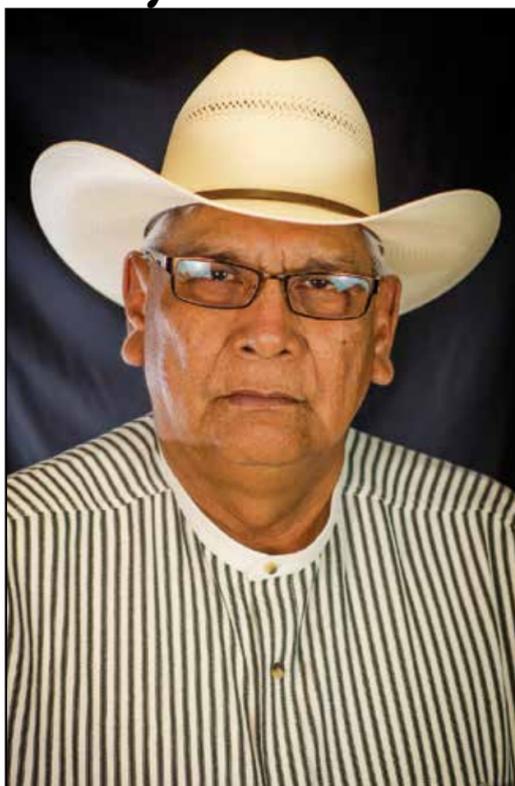

I am seeking a seat on the council to help lead the tribe now and into the future. My goal is to improve educational opportunities for anyone regardless of age. I also believe there is much needed improvement regarding housing for tribal membership on the reservation, as well as more tribal members employed throughout the organization.

I believe in accountability throughout the tribal organization. The employees of the tribe should be held accountable in the positions they serve, to ensure that not only are they performing their duties, but also representing the tribe in a professional manner.

Also, the tribe's finances need to be handled in a responsible way that benefits the tribal membership as a whole.

I have heard many tribal members say they would like to see a change in Tribal Council.

Change starts with your vote, and I believe I am the right candidate to lead our tribe into the future and beyond. I would like to thank you for your time and support. Please feel free to ask me any questions at any time, or just simply say hi.

HOWARD D. RICHARDS SR.

Greetings,

My name is Howard D. Richards Sr. I am a candidate for a seat in the upcoming general election. I am asking for your support and vote on Nov. 2.

I will continue to address wasteful spending in this year's budget. Your Tribal Council, of which I am a member, has done this. This year's budget is lower than last year's (FY 2012). Vehicle spending has been trimmed, and there will not be buildings built this year. This has been a priority of mine.

Tribal Member Health has also been a priority of mine. We are almost complete in the structure of this; the council has to decide on how this is going to be funded.

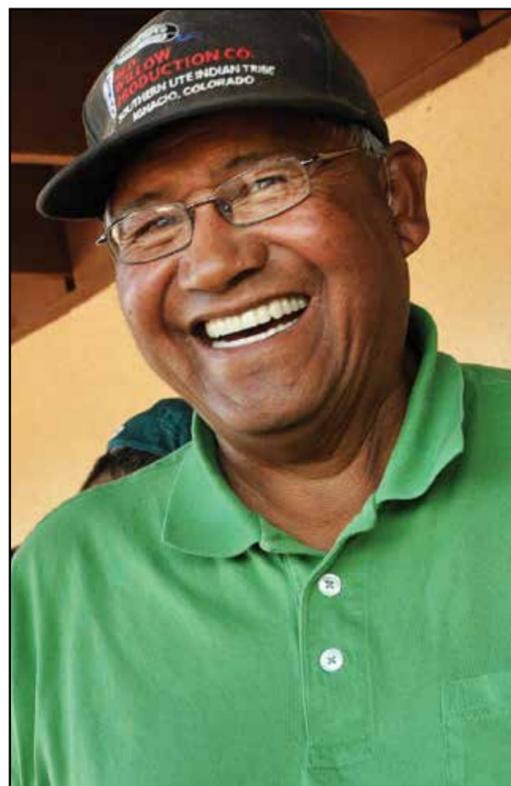

If elected, the following will be addressed by me this year:

- Our criminal justice system, i.e. tribal court, the police department, and Tribal Rangers.
- Reservation maintenance, i.e.
 - Repair of our reservation roads.
 - Range needs to be identified, i.e. fences need replacement and repair, and stock ponds and springs need protection, replacement and repair.
 - Erosion of our tribal lands.
- Housing: We need to start identifying lands that our membership can use to build homes on. I will look at different types of funding for these homes. i.e., possibilities of home mortgages, in places such as Cedar Point.

With proper planning, the above can be accomplished.

Why you should vote for me: I am no stranger to tribal politics. I have served as your past council member, vice chairman and chairman. This present administration is being held accountable; this includes the Growth Fund and casino. The knowledge that I bring to you, the membership, is very important. I bring a lot of history and experience to the Tribal Council, which is needed.

In closing, I ask for your vote and support in the upcoming general election. May the Creator protect and watch over you and your family.

ERWIN E. TAYLOR

TRIBAL COUNCIL

New media coordinator puts words into action

By Ace Stryker
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

Beth Santistevan wants to make sure Southern Ute tribal members hear all about what their government is up to: the good, the bad, and everything between.

Santistevan begins work this month as the Tribal Council media coordinator, a job that entails a long list of duties but boils down to improving the volume, clarity and scope of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe's communications, both internal and external.

She told the Drum in an interview in her new office that her priorities include sharing news of tribal leaders' actions with members and building relationships within the tribe and with external entities, such as other governments and local media outlets.

"I'm going to be working closely with Legal and Tribal Information Services, and essentially we're going to develop media strategies," she said. "We can't be scared of the media ... because we are an example of how to be successful in Indian Country."

Santistevan takes pride in having worked into her new position from the ground up. A mass media graduate of the University of New Mexico who attended on a tribal scholarship, she returned to the Southern Ute Indian Reservation and first worked temporary and entry-level positions.

"I came back here specifically to work for my tribe," she said, "because they paid my way through college."

In 2004, she went to work for The Southern Ute Drum as a photographer/reporter, later

Jeremy Wade Shockley/SU Drum

Beth Santistevan is the new Tribal Council media coordinator. Among other duties, she will facilitate communications between the council and tribal members.

becoming media manager. She then spent roughly two years as a communication specialist for Red Willow Production Co., which she said granted exposure to a whole new side of the tribal organization. Her latest post was as an academic advisor for the tribe's Department of Education.

Santistevan said two things drew her to her new job: the opportunity to help provide a clearer image to tribal members of their elected leaders' activities, and the chance to employ a variety of skills, including writing, editing and videography.

"There's a lot of potential for this new position," she said. "We want to be able to open up the lines of communication between the membership and the organization."

Jimmy R. Newton Jr., chairman of the Southern Ute Indian Tribal Council, appointed Santistevan after a round of interviews with several candidates. He said the media coordinator job has one primary goal: increase transparency.

"I want tribal members to know exactly what their chairman is doing. We have nothing to hide," he said. "Transparency: We always talk about that. Well, let's demonstrate it."

Newton said an important secondary goal will be to foster positive relationships with other governments on tribal, local, state and federal levels. Santistevan's education and experience uniquely qualify her for the job, he said.

"She's been groomed for an opportunity like this," he said, likening her role to a presidential chief of staff.

First things first, though: In her first week on the job, Santistevan said she's doing a lot of research to familiarize herself with tribal operations. A mission statement is forthcoming, she said.

But it doesn't all happen in a vacuum: Santistevan said she views her role as a two-way conduit, not just as someone who passes down word from on high.

"We're going to encourage tribal members to voice concerns," she said. "We want to know what the membership thinks. We want to give them what they want."

EXPRESS YOUR OPINIONS

KUDOS TO PEACEFUL SPIRIT

I am writing to say thank you for your support of the 2012 Peaceful Spirit Annual Recovery Dinner.

I was honored to be invited to attend and speak at the dinner and wanted to express how impressed I was by the dinner overall. There was a great turnout of recovering people, including current Peaceful Spirit residents who introduced themselves to me.

They expressed to me how thankful they were to see examples of recovery in those who attended the dinner, specifically those that currently attend Peaceful Spirit, and how much it meant to them to be able to be in that environment.

The planning of the dinner was amazing. There were speeches of hope and recovery and much-needed support to go around from the attendees, the counselors, and other professionals in attendance.

Judy Lansing, Heleen Emerson, Linda Mahlum, Kathryn Valencia, and Ron Avitabile did an amazing job in planning the celebration and creating an atmosphere of amazing camaraderie in recovery. The food prepared by Heleen Emerson and her family was amazing, including their friendly service.

Everyone was excited at receiving their door prizes and gifts of recovery T-shirts, water bottles, etc. It was obvious how much work went into the planning and preparation for this wonderful event.

I have been privileged to feel a part of Peaceful Spirit since the early 1980s, when I moved to Ignacio and my mother, Nancy Valencia, began work there as a residential attendant. I saw Peaceful Spirit grow and move into its new building, and watched my mother make her way from residential attendant to counselor and then to clinical supervisor before her retirement.

I had the amazing opportunity to volunteer at Peaceful Spirit, hosting art therapy groups, and then to work as the residential attendant. I now am proud to see my stepmother, Kathryn Valencia, working there first in the youth program and now as an OP counselor.

Most importantly in my life, I have also been blessed to have Peaceful Spirit as a part of my own journey to recovery, now 18 years ago. Because of all of this, I have witnessed firsthand the amazing and vital work that Peaceful Spirit does in this community and well beyond, sending so many healing individuals out into their communities and to their tribes.

Not only is the recovering individual impacted by Peaceful Spirit, but everyone in the community around them, their family and friends, as they walk their path in recovery.

I just want to thank the wonderful individuals of Peaceful Spirit for their work on behalf of all those in recovery. I look forward to attending many more Peaceful Spirit recovery dinners.

Sincerely,
Lorrie Ann Valencia

THANKS FOR SERVE-ATHON SUPPORT

A PERIOD OF REFLECTION

Mrs. D'Wolf,

In light of our recent professional disagreement, I would like to offer you an apology. Sometimes colleagues find that they disagree, and while I believe I have the right to voice my concerns, my behavior during the general meeting was unacceptable.

I should not have resorted to inflammatory language, and I certainly should not have anonymously implicated you as well as the Health Services Department in the performance of your duties. As adults and professionals, this is not the way I usually act.

I value you as a colleague and I hope we can discuss this issue like adults in the future. Again, please accept my most humble apologies.

Respectfully,
Ray C. Frost

A TRIBAL CONCERN OF MINE

I was told that our Tribal Council and chairman have come to a place that they are not taking the general membership into consideration when changing things.

I was told that they plan to lower the amount to $500 — instead of keeping the $600 that has been in place for years — for tribal membership for emergency assistance. They have raised the trash pickup and water delivery to those that need the water in order to live.

I was told that Tribal Council and chairman feel the tribal membership gets enough money to live on, yet living costs both on and off reservation are high! What are they thinking? There are three council members who receive paychecks as well as the elders' pay, so they are not worried about the health and welfare of the tribal membership.

Some elders do help out their family members because jobs are given out to nonmembers as well as friends they get along with.

You members who are running for council better wake up and fight for the membership rather than sit there and collect the money and not do a thing for all us but make broken promises like today's council.

As for the elders that received a letter from the so-called "committee," it really is without justice that you all did not have any input from the elders when changing the policy and such. I was told by Executive Director Steve Herrera that the elders would get some training on trips (including rooms, meals and mileage) that are going to be taking place. I would like to know when this is going to take place, and where.

I, as a tribal elder, am speaking for myself and others who feel as I do. I know already there are elders that often say "She or they aren't speaking for me," and I'm not speaking for you. I am concerned because I have children as well as grandchildren and great-grandchildren who will be affected by many things that may not be good choices for them made by our Council and chairman.

Therefore, make your wise selection when voting for a council member! Membership young and old better stand up and start speaking up and voice your concerns if you want a change.

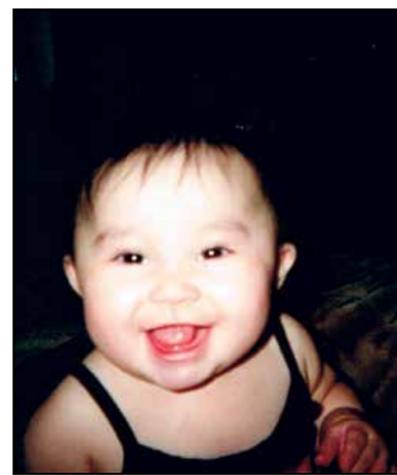

Dixie Naranjo

Elect J Paul Brown House District 59

I'm Ben Nighthorse Campbell

I was honored to represent the people of the 59th House District at different levels of elected office for 22 years.

This year, there is a candidate with deep community roots, who believes as I do, that we must have a strong decisive voice to speak up for us in the all important areas of economic opportunity, a less intrusive government, a livable tax rate, protecting our environment and resources, and educating our young people.

I've been friends and neighbors of J Paul Brown's family for over 30 years and know if there was ever a time when we need a real fighter in the Colorado Legislature it is now. MONEY MATTERS

Report: Tax-prep companies push high-cost loans against refunds

Staff report
FIRST NATIONS
DEVELOPMENT INSTITUTE

This past tax season, First Nations Development Institute carried out a "mystery shopper" study of for-profit tax preparation businesses serving Native American taxpayers.

The study culminated in a report, "More Tax Time Troubles," that identifies a number of issues encountered by Native American tax filers. Unfortunately, First Nations discovered that high-cost loans against tax refunds are still being aggressively marketed.

Furthermore, some tax preparers manipulate taxpayers into signing up for costly bank products, such as refund anticipation checks, in order to receive their tax refunds.

The 10 mystery shopper visits took place between Nov. 28, 2011, and April 17, 2012, in towns across New Mexico, including Gallup, Espanola, Bernalillo, Farmington, Milan, Santa Fe and Albuquerque.

With support from the Annie E. Casey Foundation and the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, the study assessed the quality of paid tax-preparation services to document whether these companies were steering individuals toward expensive products such as refund anticipation loans or refund anticipation checks. The research builds on previous work conducted by First Nations that evaluated paid tax-preparation companies during the 2011 tax season.

The most troublesome finding was that some tax preparers use misinformation to manipulate clients into signing up for costly products. Three of the 10 participants in the study were pushed to automatically sign up for a costly RAC to receive their refund.

Tax preparers used several tactics to encourage people to use the products. In one case, the bank product was presented as the default option, and the taxpayer was told he could not receive direct deposit into his bank account without paying a fee. In another case, a taxpayer was automatically rolled into a RAC product when her application for a RAL was denied.

Seven of the 10 shoppers were verbally encouraged to take out a RAL, and nearly all of the participants were surrounded by Republic Bank posters advertising RALs. Five mystery shoppers applied for a loan against their tax refunds, and three received at least one loan.

Additionally, the research identified that loan companies often employ questionable or illegal practices when managing the loan process or completing the loan agreements. For example, First Nations documented two cases where birth certificates and/or Social Security cards were used as collateral for a loan, even though they have limited financial value.
