New Growth Fund building nears completion

By Damon Toledo
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

Roughly a year since the initial groundbreaking of the project, construction of the new Growth Fund headquarters is ahead its schedule for completion. By summer 2015, the Southern Ute Indian Tribe will have a new Growth Fund building open for business.

Bruce Valdez, executive director of the Growth Fund, provided updates on the construction of the new building.

"We've actually been doing really well," he said. "We are looking at an on time completion and hope to move in there around May or June, ahead of our original scheduled time. So far we haven't seen any delays. [Workers] are currently hanging the dry wall, and so far it's going remarkably well."

The new Growth Fund headquarters is expected to bring in approximately 130 employees, most of who are established in offices in Durango. These departments include the Department of Energy, Growth Fund Private Equity Group, and Southern Ute Shared Services. Additionally, a number of returning employees are expected to fill positions in human resources, finance, accounting, and information technology. The current Growth

Because of the ongoing expansion of Red Willow Production, decisions to relocate the Growth Fund into its own building became

TRIBAL HEALTH

Building for better health

By Damon Toledo
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

For years, the Southern Ute Tribe has gone far and beyond in building a healthier community for its members. A new dental and optometry building was only the start. With the addition of newer staff and department directors, the Southern Ute Health Department's vision of providing top quality care for tribal members is set for a bright future.

The Southern Ute Health Department gathered with affiliates from the Connect for Health Colorado Organization and the Colorado Department of Public Health on Monday, Dec. 8 to address updates happening within the Southern Ute Indian Reservation. Er-

BOYS & GIRLS CLUB

Community toy drive is underway

By Sacha Smith
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

The Boys and Girls Club of the Southern Ute Indian Tribe has begun its annual Christmas Toy Drive Monday, Dec. 1. The Boys and Girls Club is looking for toys for children of all ages, including infants. Toys should be unwrapped and not exceed ten dollars.

Lindsay Box BGC mentor coordinator said that the turn out last year was great, "but it's always a goal to do better," she said.

"We want to reach more families than we did last year," Augusta Burch, BGC program specialist added.

Last year, BGC was selected and was donated two pallets of toys to help the cause, Box said. This year BGC is hoping to be selected again, but it is uncertain if they will be at this time.

This year the Los Pinos Fire Department will be helping out with the delivery of the toys on Tuesday, Dec 23. The BGC staff will be riding around on the fire truck handing out toys at random, Box said.

There is no specific time the fire truck will be at a nections for easier business.

Valdez additionally wanted to address any misconceptions that the community may have been confused with in regards to returning Growth Fund employees.

"I understand there is a lot of misconception that we are hiring tons of new faces, but we're actually just moving employees back," he clarified.

"The new building will be for Growth Fund administration and it'll allow us to bring back some of the key parts of the Growth Fund that we moved to Durango because of space issues. We'll be bringing back people from offices out of Three Springs as well as accounting and finance. We had to move a lot of [employees] out of our original building because it was becoming overcrowded. We won't be doing much hiring."

Valdez concluded that hiring for new positions is possible, only if protocol calls for it.

"We're going to grow according to what the industry allows," he said. "If there's new opportunities or new investments, we're always going to look at that. We evaluate the growth of our business, and if the markets indicate that we need to head in new directions, then we will run it by Tribal Council for approval. We have to grow and evolve as an organization to stay competitive."

We're continuing to build trust between patients and care providers. There is a lot of activity going on across the department and we want Tribal members to be aware."

The Southern Ute Health Department went on with their introduction to newer services. Patients now have access to a dialysis van, which will be used to transfer patients to clinics inside and outside the Southern Ute Indian Reservation. It will be configured with high quality equipment while providing comfort for elders and dialysis patients. Patient pick-ups can be scheduled through the Southern Ute Health Center by contacting LuRhea Ramone.

The Health Department included the recognition of homemaker services that are offered to tribal elders.

"We have helped 81 elders," she said. "Our elder homemaker services focuses on lending elders an extra hand with housework, including cooking and cleaning. We want to ensure our elders have their flu shots, and we also do food checks if they are diabetic. We have a census of our elders and do house visits to see if they want any additional help. If they're not interested, then we respect that as well."

Behavioral health was an important topic, focusing on outreach programs and suicide prevention. Studies have shown that poverty, unemployment, domestic violence, sexual assault, alcoholism and drug addiction are key factors in suicide with young American Indians. The growing number of suicide in American Indian reservations has reached to toxic proportions, more than three times the national average with up to 10 occurrences on a number of reservations.

"Behavioral Health Services provides primary care for our patients," Osawe said. "We have a psychiatrist and psychologist who reach out to patients who feel like they're struggling. There's no argument that there's plenty that needs to be done with substance abuse, family therapy, and coping skills. There are a lot of people who wait until things get really bad before they seek help. Families must understand that we have resources in place ... the first thing to do is prevent. There's so many ways in dealing with life challenges and people shouldn't be afraid to say they need help."

According to statistics, behavioral health can be affected with diabetes and obesity, which is the number one health concern within the American Indian population.

The percentage of type 2 diabetes with American Indians over the age of 19 is 12.2% and continues to rapidly increase. Diabetes can obstruct blood circulation and weaken small vessels in the brain. This can cause tissue damage and affect mental functions, which can eventually lead to depression and anxiety. Potentially, diabetics could develop serious conditions like dementia, Alzheimer's, or stroke.

"[The Health Department] will continue to focus on physical health, spiritual health, and mental health," Osawe concluded. "If you're hurting in any of these places, then we are here to provide that aid. The Tribe is far ahead than other tribes in providing this network of care. We want to continue with building trust for our patients and do what we can to prevent."

HEALTHY ALTERNATIVES

Ignacio restaurant adds healthy menu

By Sacha Smith
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

One of Ignacio's favorite restaurants will be adding healthy alternatives to its menu Friday, Dec. 19.

The new healthy menu includes nine new dishes – three for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Also included on the menu will be calorie, protein, and carb counts, owner of The Patio Restaurant Emily Meisner said.

"We're going to try this menu out ... we've had lots of requests for healthier options," she said. "This menu is geared towards health and portion control."

Items making up the dishes on the healthy menu include: egg whites, roasted potatoes, sweet potatoes, and chicken sausage links, salmon, tuna, roasted chicken and steak.

According to Meisner, the whole healthy menu is gluten free – minus one dish, which offers a wheat pita. But take the pita away, and the dish becomes gluten free as well.

The gluten free trend is a growing market and Meisner is excited to fulfill the requests of her gluten-free customers.

"It's an opportunity to feed one more niche," she said.

Meisner hopes the portioned-controlled menu as well as the calorie counts will cater to her health conscious customers.

"We're going to try the menu out and see how the community responds," she said. "The dishes on the healthy menu will be changed up to offer some variety."

Healthy menu dishes include: Breakfast Tacos, Americano Steak & Eggs, Chicken sausage links & eggs, Mediterranean Salmon Sampler, Garlic Rosemary Chicken, Tuna salad with a wheat pita, Asian sirloin, Simple Salmon Dinner and Herb Roasted Chicken.

Though The Patio is broadening its menu to include healthy options, the home cooked feel good food The Patio is known for is not going anywhere, Meisner said.

IHS GIRLS BASKETBALL

Lady Cats spring upsets in Alamosa

IHS girls trip 3A Centauri, 2A Rye

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Had Ignacio had the springs to hang with two Springs sets, you might currently be reading about a Lady Bobcat team off to an eye-opening 4-and-0 start entering its Friday, Dec. 12 home opener.

Results from that contest, held inside SunUte Community Center against non-league 2A Center, were unavailable by press time, but IHS' results of outings alternating between a season-opening loss on Dec. 2 to Pagosa Springs and Dec. 5 to Glenwood Springs (on Day 2 of the Centauri-hosted Mountain Top Classic) are savory enough as Ignacio felled two highly-rated opponents.

The second of which, Rye, ranked eighth in the pre-season [released Nov. 24th] CHSAANow.com Class 2A poll, experienced the full force of emerging freshman forward/guard Hilda Garcia.

Having netted eleven points in her varsity debut in a 59-39 loss at second-ranked [11/24 Class 3A poll] PSHS – in which the Lady Cats trailed last season's State runners-up by just five points (19-14) after one quarter and six (28-22) through two – Garcia then proceeded to score 14 in a 47-44 upset of CHS on day one of the MTC, and zapped the Lady Thunderbolts for 17 in a 43-40 victory on day three.

Ignacio freshman Avionne Gomez (25) calls a play as Glenwood Springs' Megan Uren (3) defends during Day 2 play at the Mountain Top Classic in Alamosa, Friday, Dec. 5.

"With her size and God-given abilities, she is a basketball player," said head coach Shane Seibel. "She loves the sport, plays with passion and, quite frankly, she's going to be good for years to come!"

Maker of Ignacio's first three hoops – a baseline layup and consecutive three-pointers at PSHS – of the 2014-15 campaign, senior point guard Sky Cotton had 13 points versus Rye, giving her outputs of 10-8-11-13 to begin her comeback from last winter's knee injury.

Bobcats finish strong at Mountain Top

IHS saves split of slate's first four

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Wrapping up the Centauri-hosted Mountain Top Classic with authority, the Ignacio Bobcats showed something of the 'Ignacio' always expected by friend and foe, and finished with two wins in three tries at the event with a 91-20 demolition of Hayden last Saturday, Dec. 6.

Senior Adison Jones led the way with 19 points, junior Nick Herrera was right behind with 18, and the low-post pair combined for 15-of-21 accuracy from the floor. Junior guard Tucker Ward was 4-for-6 from three-point land and finished with 14 points, while senior reserve guard Xavier Reynolds – already with a solid outing on day one against CHS to his credit – dropped another 13.

His 3-for-4 from downtown helped IHS finish 12-for-28, a 43 percent pace that the 2A Tigers – led by senior Juan Valdez's eight points

IHS VOLLEYBALL

All-SJBL volleyball has 'Spirit'

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Part of the IHS Cheer crew that competed at the State Spirit Championships inside the Denver Coliseum the weekend of Dec. 5-6, junior Chrystianne Valdez also recently earned an Honorable Mention All-San Juan Basin League nod for her work on the volleyball court in the 2014 season.

Receiving 16 points from the loop's coaches in the voting system, and utilized by head coach Thad Cano as a libero, defensive specialist and outside hitter, Valdez was joined by Nucla junior middle Erin Staats (13), Dolores senior libero Kelly Charles (12), Mancos senior outside/middle Courtney Colyer (11), Norwood senior OH/MH Kelsey Rowe (11) and Ouray junior OH/MH Sarah Pankow (4).

FEELING THE 'SPIRIT'

Competing in the Class 2A 'Cheer' division at the aforementioned State Spirit Championships, Ignacio scored a 52.35 during the preliminary round on Day 2 but did not advance to the finals and ultimately finished in 14th place, between Telluride (53.05) and Merino (50.4). Edwards Vail Christian took first in 2A 'Poms' and Salida won the 2A/3A 'Co-Ed Cheer' class.

IHS WRESTLING

Wrestlers second in Bayfield

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Minus a pair of familiar regulars in seniors Mike Perez and Josh Gallegos, Ignacio Wrestling still managed a strong start to its 2014-15 schedule with a second-place result at the Wolverine Classic, hosted Saturday, Dec. 6, by neighboring Bayfield.

"All the boys wrestled tough," head coach Cody Haga said. "It's just a good little tournament to start the season with, you know?"

Though not as large as it once was, this year's edition of the Classic still attracted four teams all with high hopes for the winter. Pitted against each other in a series of duals rather than a bracket-style format, IHS went 2-1 – defeating 3A BHS and 2A Center, but losing to 3A Pagosa Springs.

A former Wolverine himself, Bobcat junior Tyler Beebe went 3-for-3 (one win via forfeit) at 132 pounds and was named the Classic's Lower Weight Outstanding Wrestler.

Sophomore Stocker Robbins 113-pounds, with two forfeit wins and one pin, also finished 3-0, as did sophomore Lorenzo 'Woody' Peña at 145 and junior Ethan Appenzeller at 138.

Senior Iaacic Peña 152-pounds went 2-1, losing only to BHS senior Colter McMenimen – against whom his younger brother wrestled often last season. Sophomore Timmy Plehinger also went 2-1 wrestling up at 160 pounds (he weighed in at 152.4) in Perez's stead.

Haga's lineup for the event – won by PSHS with a 3-0 mark – also included sophomore Lucas Monroe as an additional 138-pounder, senior David Cooper at 170 and senior Alex Lopez at heavy-weight with Gallegos out.

Up next, the Bobcats head to the Dove Creek 'Dawg Fight,' Saturday, Dec. 13, starting at 10 a.m. The team then duals San Juan Basin League foe Dolores away at 6 p.m. on the Thursday, Dec. 18, and wraps up pre-holiday action on the Saturday, Dec. 20 at the Piedra Vista Panther Duals in Farmington, N.M.

Hit the court running

Joel Priest/Special to the Drum

Ignacio sophomore Veronica Gonzales (1) beats Pagosa Springs' Megan Ellis (15) with the dribble during the Lady Bobcat JV's season-opener at PSHS on Dec. 2. In the crew's only outing yet as of this issue of the Drum, IHS fell to the Lady Pirates 49 to 8, after PSHS began the game on a 13-1 scoring spree. Ignacio's JV boys fared slightly better the same afternoon, but lost 58-20--leaving the boys' 'C' team, which pulled out a 44-43 squeaker, as the only sub-varsity squad to see victory.

2015 NEW YEAR SOBRIETY WALK

The New Year Sobriety Walk is dedicated to Saa-swani Hiswaqs (Robert) Buckskin. Many of you have felt his generosity, thoughtfulness and pursuit of justice for Native people. He sought to unite Natives together to strengthen our culture, ceremonies, protect our resources and walk the Red Road with courage. His life and memory live in us, his family and his friends. All the qualities that made him a strong warrior will linger on in our hearts.

We survive as Native people because our ancestors fought and died for us. They lived through countless difficulties, famine, plague, removal from their lands, boarding schools and forced assimilation. They protected our ceremonies, our lands and our future with their lives. We survive because their spirits could not be broken. In a continuously changing world Natives have been able to adapt throughout the generations. Each of us is a warrior and every warrior has a purpose in this life.

Make a difference, your voice matters, be the difference in someone's life. Join us on the Walk to honor our survival and to start the year off on the right foot.

The walk will start at Veteran's Park at 8 a.m. on Jan. 1 and will be four miles.

The route will be from Veteran's Park to the softball fields then to Buck Highway. From Buck highway, we will walk to HWY 151 by the old elementary school then proceed to main street.

Next, we will walk through town back to the Veteran's Park. We will be offering prayers at each mile. Please come join us and start the New Year in a healthy way by refraining from the usage of drugs, alcohol, or any other substance abuse.

This is a sobriety walk. For any questions or more information, please contact Cindy Winder at 970-563-0100, ext. 2301 and/or sobrietywalk@gmail.com.

LADY CATS SPRING UPSETS • FROM PAGE 1

held in Alamosa inside Adams State University's Plachy Hall, Garcia paced IHS with 17 points in a 64-39 loss to 4A GSHS – like Centauri, a 'Receiving Votes' team in their 'classifications' respective polls to start the season.

Her two early treys kept Ignacio (now 2-2 overall) close, 14-6, as the first quarter wound down, but behind the first eleven of senior guard Jordan DeCrow's game-high 23 points, the Lady Demons led 22-11 entering the second and 35-23 entering the third – when Glenwood effectively put the game away by going on a 16-0 run after an early Cotton triple.

"We missed a lot of layups, which is a good sign in my book," Seibel said. "Because we got it out early. And our offense is giving the girls good opportunities, good high-percentage shots – ours didn't fall, theirs did, but they're a good team."

Freshman reserve guard Avionne Gomez scored seven points, while fellow backups Veronica Gonzales and Gibran Silva each had two in the loss. Senior post Madi Spence poured in 20 for the victors.

In the aforementioned win over the hosting Lady Falcons, junior Ellie Seibel's seven points equaled classmate Cortney Baker's and sophomore Alejandra Lujan's, but the trio was then collectively blanked by GSHS – which then finished off a 3-and-0 Classic run to start their season with a 48-30 defeat of Centauri (1-2) on Day 3.

Losing to Ignacio dropped RHS to 0-3 overall, and left the Lady T-bolts in fourth at the MTC.

"I'm impressed with how our girls never gave up," Seibel said. "One of the things that we're focused on is ourselves," he continued. "You know, individually making sure that we're focused on seeing ourselves play the best that we can. That's my message to them – to see what they've [opponents] got, but then also really put the attention back on themselves and come out ready."

– simply couldn't match in making just two of 14.

Having fallen 50-39 at 3A Pagosa Springs on Tuesday, Dec. 2 to begin the 2014-15 basketball season, the Cats made amends barely 41 hours later at the MTC, held in Alamosa inside Adams State University's Plachy Hall, by clipping the host Falcons 57-42.

Held to just five points by the Pirates, junior guard Wyatt Hayes led the way against Centauri with 17. Freshman guard Kruz Pardo chipped in ten off the bench, Jones had nine and Herrera four as CHS lacked injured inside presence Mitchell Wilson.

Day two of the Classic saw the Cats square off against Glenwood Springs – unranked in the pre-season [released Nov. 24] CHSAANow.com Class 4A poll – but coming off a 15-8 season ending in the State Tournament. And both sides started aggressively, with the Demons separating late for a slim 14-10 lead after the first quarter.

The advantage grew in the second, but behind five Jones points and a three-ball by junior guard Anthony Manzanares, Ignacio rallied to shrink the deficit at half-time to just a digit, 21-20.

And the comeback continued after the intermission; a Ward lay-in gave IHS a 24-23 lead, and a Hayes three re-gained it at 27-25 before GSHS junior guard Cameron Horning's seven points in the frame put the Demons up 30-27 going into the fourth.

A Horning drive with 3:15 remaining built Glenwood's lead up to 42-34, but the Bobcats (now 2-2 overall) hung tough, and picked up an extra boost when Reynolds drew Horning's fifth foul while converting a layup with 1:35 left, bringing Ignacio back to 43-39.

But despite applying proper pressure defensively, IHS was unable to find any offensive luck and GSHS junior guard Mason Yellico iced the game with three free throws making for a 46-39 final.

Horning led the Demons – who then held off Centauri on Day 3 to finish the MTC a first-place 3-and-0 – with a game-high 15 points, senior Zack Peterson contributed an even dozen and Yellico finished with nine, including 5-of-6 from the stripe in the fourth quarter.

Jones and Manzanares each totaled nine points for the Cats (Class 2A's No. 2 in the preseason rankings) with Hayes netting eight, Herrera seven and Ward four.

FLY-FISHING

Christmas wish list

By Don Oliver
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

When you reach my age, older than: dirt, ketchup, electricity, or Chair 8 at Purgatory, there isn't much left that you need. I really don't need anything. My fishing closet, rod rack, and boat storage area, are almost full. Basically, I can get by with what I have, yeah right. So, why even have a Christmas list? Grandchildren, that's why. After they have shown what true mayhem and chaos is during the unwrapping of gifts, I can excuse myself, go to the man room for a cigar, and let their parents handle the end results of the ultimate sugar and gift high. Christmas is going to be fun this year.

Basically, I can get by with what I have, yeah right. So, why even have a Christmas list? Grandchildren, that's why.

Grandchildren restore the joy and happiness of this season. How can Black Friday fill anyone with the spirit of Christmas? Just the name, and its intent, is enough to put a smile on Ebenezer Scrooge's face. With that happy thought, and the knowledge that life is finite, I came up with my Christmas list. I have asked to spend more time with the world's two cutest grandchildren, mine not yours.

I want more time to teach them how to fish. It can be fly or bait fishing it doesn't matter. I want to teach them how to bait hooks with worms or minnows. It will be so much fun to have shown them how to rub fish slime on their clothes and then watch their mom have to launder their new fishing clothes. When the fishing slows down, or gets boring, every kid needs to know how to skip rocks.

I'm good at this one. I used to be able to skip a rock to the fish I wanted my client to cast to. This is a great skill for future fly fishing guides to have.

This is not a one-way street. I want them to be able to teach Grumps that watching cartoons is far better than CNN or Fox, and that running through the house is an acceptable form of exercise, or we can see if a gold fish will take a dry fly, that would be a good learning experience. Especially if you're having a contest to see who can cast the fly into the bowl from 15 feet away while indoors.

Most of all I want grandchildren everywhere to reinforce with their grandparents a sign I saw the other day. It said, "When you stop believing in Santa you get underwear." I think that is one of the best politically correct statements I have ever seen. I know my belief in Santa has been rekindled.

So as I end 2014, I want to close with my traditional year-end salutation. "I wish everyone; Feliz Navidad, Happy Hanukkah, a good Eid as-Adha, and of course, Merry Christmas. If none of these fits your beliefs, then whatever touches your heart with hope be with you all of 2015."
