The Southern Ute Dental Department is welcoming a new member to the group - Dr. Joe Baumgart, who has specialized in dentistry for over five years.

Originally from a small farming town in southern Illinois, Dr. Baumgart graduated from Mt. Carmel High School in 2001 where he knew he wanted to practice dental and medicine since freshman year.

"I knew by the time I was a freshman that I wanted to pursue dental and medicine," he stated. "After I shadowed both, I decided to go with dental, which was around my senior year." Dr. Baumgart joined the

He received his bachelors in science as well as his doctorate at Southern Illinois University before moving to Durango in 2011 and continued practicing dentistry in Cortez.

Before joining the Southern Ute Dental Department, Dr. Baumgart worked nine months with the Navajo Nation in Shiprock at the Northern Navajo Medical Center. He took the position with the Southern Ute Indian Tribe to be closer to home. During his downtime, he enjoys skiing, mountain biking, kayaking, and other outdoor activities.

Dr. Baumgart commented on his position, stating, "I'm happy to be working for the Southern Ute Indian Tribe. I really like my job in dentistry, and I really hope to provide really great character to as many people as I can."

Zika, West Nile: What you need to know

By Sacha Smith
 THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

ZIKA

Every summer, mosquitos make their return wreaking havoc on those enjoying the summer weather. However this year there are more fears circulating mosquito bites since the outbreak of the Zika virus.

First things first, Zika is not a new virus. It was discovered in Uganda in 1947 and for the most part has stayed localized until this last May when the outbreak in Brazil occurred.

In the U.S. Zika started showing up in travel related cases – cases that involve a person who had recently traveled to an infected area and returned to the U.S. But now we are seeing non-travel-related cases popping up in Florida. According to the Florida Health Department as of Wednesday, Aug. 17 there are 33 non-travel-related cases of the Zika virus known in their state.

Somewhat good news for Coloradoans is that according to the San Juan Basin Health Department the species of mosquito that transmits Zika does not exist in Colorado.

However, Tribal Health Department Interim Director Kaylor Shemberger said though the Centers of Disease Control did not identify Southwest Colorado, as a potential key area for Zika to occur doesn't mean it couldn't happen; it just means there is less risk of it happening, he said.

"The most reasonable thing to do is to honor the CDC guidelines," Shemberger said. "Anyone traveling to and from a high risk area should be concerned."

According to the CDC website an alert has been issued for travel to areas where Zika is spreading. Travelers who are pregnant or considering pregnancy should consult a doctor before traveling.

Since there is no vaccine or treatment for Zika, people living or traveling to areas with Zika should take steps to prevent infection.

Transmission

According to the CDC, Zika is primarily spread through the bite of an infected mosquito. Mosquitoes become infected when they feed on a person already infected with the virus. Infected mosquitoes can then spread the virus to other people through bites.

The virus can also be passed through sex from a person who has Zika to his or her partners. A pregnant woman infected with Zika can pass it on to her fetus during pregnancy. The infection and can lead to microcephaly and other serve brain defects in infants.

In adults the virus is linked to a form of tem-

Hunting permits offered to first descendants

Editors note: This article is a more detailed accurate version of the original article that was printed in the August 5, 2016 issue of the Drum. Please familiarize yourself with the accurate information this article provides.

Staff report
 SU WILDLIFE DIVISION

First descendants of Southern Ute tribal members are now eligible to apply to hunt in the January Cow Elk hunt on the East Side of the reservation – a new regulation that was recently approved by Tribal Council.

Several Wildlife Division surveys showed that the tribal membership is open to first descendant hunting on the reservation. The Tribal Member Wildlife Advisory Board considered these survey results and recommended that first descendants be given preference for the 2017 January hunt. Tribal Council approved the recommendation in a July 26th meeting.

"The annual January Cow Elk Hunt has historically been available to "other" Native Americans," stated Steve Whiteman, Wildlife Division Head. "This is the first time descendants of Southern Utes have been approved to hunt on the reservation. In order to apply for a permit, first descendants of enrolled Southern Ute tribal members must get the proper paperwork from Tribal Information Services. They will be required to show a birth certificate that shows that at least one parent is/was an enrolled Southern Ute tribal member. In addition to their birth certificate they will need to show one other form of identification. The proper TIS paperwork will be the only acceptable proof of first descendant status for this hunt. First descendants can then come into the Wildlife office and fill out an application for a permit. First descendants have "preference" over other Natives for this hunt. That means that they will not need to draw for the hunt if there are fewer applicants than permits available. By extending permitting preference to first descendants, the draw odds for other Natives will be lowered. For example, there are 60 permits available for the Archuleta hunt unit; if 20 first descendants are interested then only the remaining 40 permits will be available for other Natives to draw. However if 80 first descendants are interested in permits for the Archuleta unit then there will be a draw process to choose 60 first descendant hunters, and no permits would be available for other Natives. We simply don't know yet what the level of interest will be from first descendants, but we believe it will be a small number."

"There are 120 permits total available to first descendants and other Natives; 60 in the Sandoval hunt unit and 60 in the Archuleta hunt unit. Also, it's important to remember that Southern Ute tribal members have always been welcome to participate in the January Cow Elk Hunt, and this new development with first descendants does not change that" commented Aran Johnson, Wildlife Biologist. "Tribal members may pick up permits for the January Cow Elk Hunt at any point prior to the hunt free of charge. For first descendants and other Natives there is a $25 application fee, due when handing in the application, as well as a $125 permit fee due prior to the hunt starting. First descendants and other Natives participating in the hunt are required to attend a pre-hunt orientation meeting to go over rules and regulations and other expect-tations of the hunt."

When applying for a hunting permit, it has been noted that the applicant must have a clean record, which will be checked for any hunting and/or fishing violations.

The annual January Cow Elk Hunt will be entering its fourteenth year, and will have a mandatory orientation on January 6 at the Sky Ute Casino, with the official hunt following from January 7 through January 15. Please contact the Wildlife Division with questions about the application process or the hunt.

SOUTHERN UTE MUSEUM

Installation: A 3-D puzzle

By Linda Baker
SU MUSEUM

The Permanent Gallery cases have been cleaned and vacuumed inside, outside and underneath. Photographs have been taken of each empty case to record the location of display mounts, interior boxes, platforms, and labels. Now the installation, or placement of artifacts, begins one at a time.

The first full case to be installed included a headdress and two pamphlets. The thin pamphlets have long titles: Corporate Charter of the Southern Ute Tribe, Colorado, Ratified November 1, 1938, and Constitution and By-Laws of the Southern Ute Tribe of the Southern Ute Reservation, Colorado, Approved November 4, 1936. The pamphlets were an easy installation, similar to putting a book on a shelf, facing forward. The headdress required a more involved process of thinking - thinking in 3-D.

Thinking in 3-D begins when an item is wheeled into the Gallery on a cart and placed next to a case. When placed next to a case, a realistic analysis between an item and a display case occurs.

The placement of the headdress began with a determination of available space inside the display case, and a determination of how much space the headdress would take up. Simultaneously, a decision had to be made on the direction of the headdress. Finally, the angle of placement, including feathers and horsehair, had to be considered along with the cloth and glass walls of

This thought process occurs while the headdress waits patiently on the cart. After discussion, two individuals place the headdress inside the display case, handling the artifact as little as possible. Final touchups are gently and slowly tended to, respectfully moving feathers and horsehair safely away from the display case walls.

Before the headdress left the Vault (collection room), the correct headdress had to be found. The headdress's identity was verified through a recent inventory, and a previous inventory. No information was found about how the headdress was installed or de-installed. When no instructions exist regarding the installation of an artifact, a search for clues begins.

Clues to determine the direction of the headdress began with an examination of the headpiece the headdress would be placed on. The location of the mount, and the shape of the "pillow" the headdress was to sit on, provided clues on placement. A search for clues also occurred with a display of awl cases; there were a dozen mounts for three awls. The color of the metal mounts provided clues to the placement of the awls. The metal was painted to match the beaded background of the awl cases.

This installation of the headdress used for this article was donated by Mr. Floyd. No information was immediately available on who the original owner of the headdress was, how Mr. Floyd acquired it, or how long it had been with the museum. With future research, the gaps of information will hopefully be filled.

One of the installed awl cases is a replica, part of a commission to make replicas from historic items found at other museums. The history of the other two awls cases are not immediately known. Again, with future research, more information about the other two awls will surface.

As of Monday, August 14, 95 objects have been installed.

DENTAL UPDATES

Ms. Lorrain Victor has joined the dental team this month as a dental assistant. She comes on board with a wealth of knowledge and experience and the clinic is excited to have her.

This week is also Jordan Miller's one-year anniversary working at the Southern Ute Dental Clinic. She is a vital part of the dental team and her continued dedication to the clinic is appreciated.

Pediatric dentist, Dr. Brian Talley, will be back at the Southern Ute Dental Clinic on September 6, 8, 19, and 20.

Pediatric nugget of knowledge: Before baby's teeth come in, wipe baby's mouth with a moist cloth or special baby "gum" brush. When teeth start to come in, around 4-8 months, start using a small "smear" of toothpaste. This is easy if you wipe toothpaste across the brush. Use this amount until your child's second birthday. After your child reaches age 3, use a "pea size dab" of toothpaste. Use fluoride toothpaste every morning and night for 2 minutes.

The Dental Clinic is open Monday-Thursday 7 a.m.– 5 p.m. with a lunch break from 12 – 1 p.m. and on Fridays from 7 a.m. – 4 p.m. with a lunch between 11 a.m. and 12 p.m. If patients want to call and make an appointment, please call the Dental Clinic at 563-4719.

Peaceful Spirit updates

Staff report
PEACEFUL SPIRIT

From July 18-29, the staff at Peaceful Spirit conducted in-house training and work groups. There was also an Open House on July 27, 2016 for the community and tribal members to talk with staff about policies, admission and general information about the programs offered at the agency. Attendees traveled from as far away as Winslow, Arizona.

Peaceful Spirit functions as the Southern Ute Treatment Center and is part of the not-for-profit branch of the tribe called the Southern Ute Community Action Programs (SUCAP). The agency offers alcohol/drug monitoring services, outpatient counseling, DUI education classes, and residential treatment. Tribal members and descendants can attend the 60-day residential program under a fee waiver while all others are charged $4000. A reciprocation of services allows for Northern Utes to attend under a fee waiver since Southern Utes are eligible to attend free of charge the Northern Ute Residential Treatment Center – Red Pine in Fort Duchesne, Utah. At this time, there are no agreements between Peaceful Spirit and Ute Mountain Utes. As a SUCAP program, Peaceful Spirit is open to all people who are committed to a life of recovery.

SMOKE-FREE/TOBACCO FREE CAMPUS

The newest policy change that Peaceful Spirit adopted was to comply with the Southern Ute Tribe's Smoke-Free policy. The exception to this policy is the sweat lodge area which is directed by the Sun Dance Chief, Hanley Frost. Frost is aware of Peaceful Spirit's compliance with the tribal campus Smoke-Free policy and knows participants of the sweat lodge are not bound to the Smoke-Free policy.

Peaceful Spirit staff held many discussions during the two-week trainings to address the future of substance use disorders and best practices for treatment. The staff met with a tribal council member, Wellness Court, Sun Ute, Southern Ute Detention Center, Southern Rockies

Addiction Treatment Services (SRATS), Sexual Assault Services (SASO), and Alternative Horizons. Other community agencies were invited but did not respond. The most developing concerns are heroin/opiate treatment, diagnosing and effectively treating co-occurring mental health and substance use disorders, and maintaining quality staff in a field prone to burnout and underpay.

STATE LICENSED SUBSTANCE USE DISORDER TREATMENT AGENCY

Peaceful Spirit is licensed by the state of Colorado – Office of Behavioral Health and abides by all the state regulations of substance use disorder treatment agency. All counselors are regulated by state requirements. In addition to their expertise, they also become certified in Colorado Addiction Counseling (CAC) classes. Thus, the majority of policies and procedures are guided by state mandates.

If anyone has more questions about Peaceful Spirit, please call 970-563-4555.

SAN JUAN BASIN HEALTH

Heading back to school: Updating your child's vaccines

Staff report
SAN JUAN BASIN HEALTH

With children headed back to school, San Juan Basin Health wants to remind parents why keeping school-aged children up to date on all vaccines is so important.

Childhood vaccines protect against serious but preventable life-threatening diseases. When children are not vaccinated they are at increased risk of contracting and spreading diseases to others—including classmates and family members. Children need certain vaccines to attend school. Children who are 4 to 6 years old are due for boosters of four vaccines: DTaP (diphtheria, tetanus and pertussis), chickenpox, MMR (measles, mumps and rubella) and polio. Children starting 6th grade are required to have Tdap (tetanus, diphtheria and pertussis) to attend school as well as other vaccines such as MenACWY (meningococcal conjugate vaccine) and HPV (human papillomavirus) when they are 11 to 12 years old. In addition, yearly flu vaccines are recommended for all children 6 months and older.

Don't let insurance or the inability to pay stop you from getting your child the vaccines they need to protect them and those around them. The Vaccines for Children (VFC) program provides immunizations to children regardless of ability to pay. Children who are 0-18 years of age qualify if they are: 1) Medicaid/eligible; 2) Native American/Native Alaskan; 3) Have no health insurance; 4) Under-insured/ meaning that their health insurance does not cover the vaccine or they have reached their vaccine cap. Call SJBH if you have any questions regarding the VFC program at 970-335-2015.

Parents can find out more about the required school immunizations and recommended schedule at <https://www.cdc.gov/vaccines/index.html>. We encourage residents to find out more and ask questions at their primary care provider or San Juan Basin Health. Call today to discuss your immunization needs!

paralytic paralysis called Guillain-Barré syndrome. It can also be passed through blood transfusions and laboratory exposure.

Symptoms

According to the CDC symptoms include fever, rash, joint pain, and red eyes, and are usually mild and resolve completely.

However, not everyone gets sick, so some become infected with the virus without knowing it. It is advised you see your doctor if you develop symptoms after traveling to an area with Zika.

Prevention

Avoid mosquito bites. Cover exposed skin by wearing long sleeved shirts and long pants when outdoors, wearing EPA registered mosquito with one of the following active ingredients Deet, Picardin, Bayrepel, Oil of Lemon Eucalyptus, or IR3535. Another preventative measure is to not travel to high-risk areas.

The CDC also recommends getting rid of standing water around your property. Since the virus can be transmitted through sex, the use of condoms or other barriers are recommended during sex for up to 8 weeks after returning from an infected area, when displaying no symptoms.

For men, with a Zika diagnosis or symptoms, the use of sexual barriers is recommended for 6 months following diagnosis or start of symptoms.

For women, the use of sexual barriers it's recommended for 8 weeks following a Zika diagnosis or start of symptoms.

WEST NILE VIRUS

Though much of everyone's focus has been on Zika, the San Juan Basin Health (SJBH) wants to remind the public of the risk of West Nile Virus, a common mosquito-borne illness in the Southwest.

Earlier this month the SJBH stated it had been notified of 18 positive mosquito specimens carrying the West Nile Virus in Durango City limits. Over the last five years SJBH has followed up on 10 human cases of West Nile Virus in La Plata and Archuleta County.

West Nile is most commonly transmitted via mosquito bites and does not spread from person to person or animal to person. There is no vaccine or specific treatments for West Nile Virus. Symptoms include headache, body aches joint pains, vomiting diarrhea or rash. Most with West Nile Virus will recover completely with less than one percent of those infected developing a more serious neurological infection.

However, residents should take preventative measures to keep themselves safe. Including using mosquito repellent that has been proven effective against West Nile Virus-carrying mosquitoes, such as those containing DEET, Picardin or IR3535; getting rid of standing water on your property; and keeping skin covered when out between dusk and dawn.

For more information on the Zika or West Nile Virus visit www.CDC.gov.

Head Start 'Back To School Day'

Dear Parents/Guardians,

In an effort to create a smooth transition into our program for your child and your family, we are having a "Back to School Day" and occur on the day before the first day of school, Aug. 31, 2016. Families will have two options; 12 - 2 p.m. or 5:30 - 7:30 p.m. Once you are at the Center, you will join us in the gym for lunch or dinner with your child. During the meal, you will be introduced to the teaching staff and then they will take your child to their classroom where they will complete an activity. While they are away you will receive your orientation to the program. This orientation is a required part of our program, whether your child has attended the program before or is a new enrollee. Many new policies and procedures will be gone over during this session and there will be a time for you to ask any questions you may have. If you are unable to attend orientation, your child will be unable to start until you meet with your Family Advocate to receive the information presented at "Back to School Day." Remember we close at 3 p.m. EVERY Wednesday to accommodate staff coaching and training. Please begin to make arrangements for child care now. We look forward to seeing you there. It will be a fun and exciting experience for you and your child.

POTENTIAL GED STUDENTS!

If you have not received a high school diploma, but would like to, then you may consider working toward your High School Equivalency credentials.

Ashley wanted to earn her GED® credential not just for herself, but to show her daughter the importance of education. Currently a medical assistant, she loves working in the medical field and wanted to further her career. She depended on the online resources and study books she purchased to help her pass the test. Now that she's earned her GED® credential, she plans to go to college and realize her dream of becoming a physician's assistant. Ashley encourages others to go for their dreams, too.

"Anybody can succeed if they put their mind to it!"

FGDM

Making decisions as a family

Damon Toledo
THE SOUTHERN UTE DRUM

From August 8 through August 10, representatives from Southern Ute tribal departments got together for a three-day course discussing the essentials of Family Group Decision Making (FGDM), hosted by Anita Horner, Senior Instructor and Practice Advancements Manager of the Kempe Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect. Kempe is a national group that applies family decision-making skills by providing resources and fundamentals on certain issues within families, whether it is addiction, mental health, abuse, trauma, etc.

FGDM is a decision-making process in which members of the family group are invited and joined by members of their information network, community groups, and child welfare agencies that have become involved in the family's lives.

"We need to let the families have a say in what they're going through," said Anita Horner. "It's about how families comprehend and find a solution with one another. This course allows those who participate to experience different roles in how families are affected."

During the three-day course, representatives from Southern Ute Tribal Council, Social Services, Southern Ute Education Department, Southern Ute Tribal Court, Detention/

Anita Horner, Senior Instructor of the Kempe Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse discusses with attendees about the importance of family group decision-making.

Probation Center, and the Southern Ute Indian Montessori Academy participated in group discussions and role-playing scenarios that involved common family issues. Participants were given a certain role to which they had to provide background information with their character's issue and identify a procedure in confrontation.

"The [course] taught us all how to identify potential situations that is common with many families," commented Charise Hunter, FGDM coordinator apprentice. "It was good for us and the resource providers to be on the same page in order for us to provide a good foundation for the membership when it comes to these issues ... whether it's addiction, trauma, abuse, or other problems. We just want people to know that if they're experiencing any problems, they can feel open to talk about them to us about it. No one should feel ashamed that they have a difficulty, and they should not feel like they're putting a burden on someone else for telling them."

"When we were doing the role playing, I could feel it as a healing," added Natelle Thompson, Sunshine Cloud Smith Youth Advisory representative. "It seems we all felt a connection through our characters. This was my first time taking a training course like this, and learning about family group decision-making helped me [identify] certain issues."

"Having these discussions with each other, it gives us the knowledge in how to comfort a tribal member who feels they need to talk to someone, a person who can support them," stated Tribal Councilwoman Amy J. Barry. "We also consider spiritual healing as an option, and we have the resources for that. Spirituality is a therapeutic measure that we should take advantage of."

FLC BASKETBALL

Herrera psyched up to shine in Spain

IHS alum off to second pro destination

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

Indirectly, Bob Hofman – via a former Fort Lewis College pupil – meshed well with Bob Knight.

And the end result this past winter was the Finnish Korisliiga's 'Crash Brothers'.

Although KTP Basket went 13-23, finishing an unsatisfying – especially if either of the aforementioned collegiate masters were in charge – ninth out of ten during the 2015-16 regular season (in '14-15 the team went 29-11 and placed third, after placing fourth in '13-14 at 25-19), the rebounding efforts of the loop's No. 1 and No. 3 glass-cleaners certainly created more chances for success than implied in the team's record.

Pacing the league with 9.28 caroms collected per game was former Texas Tech forward Devonne Giles, and in third with an 8.86 figure was former FLC star and Ignacio High School alumnus Alex Herrera.

"It was great. He's a veteran guy, and he helped me out every day at practice; it was a real great experience having him on my team as a rookie, being able to learn from him and get some pointers," Herrera said via phone. "I mean he played for... Knight, so he had a great coach in college and learned a lot."

According to the statistics posted to KTP Basket's page on the Korisliiga's website (www.korisliiga.fi), Giles' 17.47 points per game ranked fifth. Herrera's 10.14 stood 43rd, but when lumped in with Giles' and others' scoring, was a strong contribution to the league's fourth-highest team scoring average of 80.81 ppg.

And during his first professional campaign, in which he averaged 24:58 of court time per game in 28 appearances, the 6'10" Herrera denied 1.5 shots per outing – including a season-best six ... in his Oct. 7, 2015, debut.

"I mean, I had a lot to learn when I first got over there; it's a different speed as you move up," Herrera said, "but I thought I did well. Could have done some things better, but I learned from it and that's what I've been working on this summer."

Because word of his rookie-year emergence circulated around Europe, and

Joel Priest/Special to the Drum

IHS alumnus Alex Herrera rolls up his warm-up sleeve prior to playing for Fort Lewis College inside Ignacio's SunUte Community Center beginning the 2014-15 season. After spending the most recent winter in Finland as a first-year pro, Herrera will be hooping this season in Spain.

just before the Drum's previous issue this month was released, Herrera was acquired by Spanish second-tier club Amics del Bàsquet Castelló (TAU Castelló for sponsorship reasons).

Not a bad early birthday – Herrera turned 24, making him just about two years older than his new team and four older than its league, on Monday, August 15 – present, wouldn't you say?

"You know, I was excited," he said. "I was real grateful for this opportunity to keep on playing, and go to a great country like Spain. I'd like to help the team out as best as possible, whatever role that may be, and just take my game another step. I never want to stay the same...just want to keep on getting better."

As does his new crew.

Castelló went 13-17 in the 16-team Liga Española de Baloncesto Oro (called such since 2007), but avoided relegation to the country's third tier (the LEB Plata) by placing 11th. Though not qualifying for the eight-team LEB Oro Playoffs, a year after capturing the Copa LEB Plata and gaining promotion, Antonio 'Toni' Ten's men had found themselves as high as second in the LEB Oro regular-season standings after Round 8 of 30, and were still a competitive fifth following Round 22.

"He's reached out to me already," Herrera said of Ten. "I mean, we talk to each other pretty much every day almost, and we've had a chat with almost all the guys on the team...they all seem like a great group and I'm excited to get over there! Meet everyone in person and get started!"

In the LEB Oro, the regular-season champion is automatically promoted to the top of the national pyramid – Liga ACB – while the second- through ninth-place squads make the Playoffs, where the victor also gains promotion. The worst or two worst teams, conversely, face relegation.

Winners of the Jan. 29 Copa Princesa de Asturias at the 2015-16 season's midway mark, Quesos Cerato Palencia (officially CD Maristas Palencia), based in the capital of the province of Palencia, ultimately earned the regular-season crown with a 23-7 record, bettering the 22-8 of Club Melilla [one of two permanently inhabited Spanish territories in mainland Africa] Baloncesto.

Both earned promotion after Melilla Baloncesto swept a best-of-five from CB Peñas Huesca, from the province of Huesca's capital, in the Playoffs' finals late in May.

"It's just great being able to

IHS VOLLEYBALL

Volleycats' schedule favorable this fall

By Joel Priest
SPECIAL TO THE DRUM

With three of their first four matches on friendly flooring, and three of those four against teams which finished grossly under .500, and three of those first four coming against 2A/1A San Juan Basin League opposition, Ignacio Volleyball could sprint right out of the proverbial gate and gain speed for another postseason rush.

Minus multiple seniors essential to last year's 15-9 varsity record and 2A-Region G Tournament appearance, 2016 won't be the easiest of times. But with just as many regulars still eligible to return, IHS should cause plenty ruckus ... and that right away August 30 inside IHS Gymnasium versus Montezuma-Cortez.

The Lady Panthers finished just 4-18 overall and 1-9 in the 4A/5A Southwestern during a ragged 2015, in which head coach and former standout Andi Pickens was let go and assistant Jaynee Crockett finished out the slate.

Beginning with C-team play, first serve against M-CHS goes up at 4 p.m.

Up next for Ignacio will be a trip to Dove Creek, beginning SJBL play on Sept. 8 (4 p.m. start). The Lady Bulldogs struggled even more in '15, finishing 3-18 overall and 2-11 in all league matches before going 0-2 in the 1A-District 1 Tournament to mercifully end the campaign.

Always up to clash with the Cats, even in a trying season, Telluride comes calling on the 10th. Under longtime skipper Fawnda Rogers, THS went 6-14 overall, 5-10 against the SJBL before falling to Mancos in 2A-District 3's play-in match. Start time for the day's battles is 11 a.m.

The first solid test for Thad Cano's ladies is slated for the 15th, when Dolores rolls into town for a 4 p.m. start. Gina Hollen's Lady Bears finished 11-12 in 2015, but advanced to the 2A-Region C Tournament where they were swept by both Kremmling West Grand and Cedaredge. Against league opposition, DHS broke even at 7-7.

With numerous players electing to play club-level ball last winter rather than suit up for the hoops team, Ridgway should again be a force even without graduated bomber Kaitlyn Rutherford. The Lady Demons will welcome IHS and Ouray for a Sept. 17 SJBL triangular beginning at 11 a.m.

Putting even more miles on the team bus, Ignacio then travels to Nucla on the 20th. And after a 9/22 visit from Mancos, the Volleycats will quickly pack again for the long haul east to Elbert County and try to defend their Simla Invitational title on the 24th.

October 2016 gets underway with an 11 a.m. visit from SJBL 1A power Norwood on the 1st, and a shorter – but still quite long – trip east on the 4th to face Centauri in La Jara.

Under Bayfield alumna Candace Shaw, CHS finished 14-10 overall and 2-6 in the 3A Intermountain. The Lady Falcons' season, which began with Alamosa alumnus Randall Loch designated the skipper, included a five-game escape inside IHS Gymnasium and a later five-game win over Englewood Kent Denver in the 3A-Region V Tournament, before a 3-0 loss to Colorado Springs Christian in the tourney's title match.

Amongst other key dates on the slate before the 10/22 regular-season finale (11 a.m.) at home versus RHS – which joined Norwood in representing the SJBL at State – is a 4 p.m. visit from Del Norte on the 18th.

From the Southern Peaks League, the Lady Tigers went 14-11 overall under Tamara Creel in 2015, 3-2 in the postseason, but after a four-game defeat of Las Animas in the 2A-Region A Tournament semis were denied a trip to State, 3-zip in the finale by Rye.

Stunned in five games by IHS in Simla, the Lady 'Bolts then ran out of energy inside the Denver Coliseum – but not before taking two in a best-of-five with Paonia, and one in a subsequent best-of-five with Greeley Union Colony – and finished 22-4 overall.

DNHS will come to town with Jenny Owsley – who'd guided the team from 2012-14 – again in charge this season; Creel had previously been Centauri's JV coach during Kyla Gilleland's and Kateri Jaramillo's varsity-coaching stints before Loch briefly took control.

see Europe. I mean, this last season we played in the Europe Cup," said Herrera, who averaged almost nine points, seven boards and a swat per outing for KTB in the event, "so we got to travel to Turkey, Macedonia, Poland to play."

"And then this summer I also played with a team in Mexico and we did a tour in China for a month! So it's just been a great experience – I want to keep seeing all over and being able to work my way up leagues."

Herrera's new white-and-green-clad club is based in Castellón de la Plana, the capital city (officially since 1833) of Castelló province, in Spain's Valencian Community, with the Mediterranean Sea serving as its eastern border. With a current population of over 180,000 citizens, the city itself actually dates to the early 1250's A.D.

The province itself also claims Sergio García – presently the highest-earning (over $43 million) golfer on the PGA Tour without a major championship win – who was born in the Castellón de la Plana-neighboring municipality of Borriol. In May, García won his second AT&T Byron Nelson title for his ninth career PGA victory, tying the great Seve Ballesteros for most by a Spaniard.

"I look back at my past pretty much every day," said Herrera, who was set to depart Thursday, 8/18, and whose single-game highs for KTP in '15-16 were 20 points (Nov. 27) and 17 rebounds (Nov. 6).

"I'm just grateful to be where I am, coming from a small town like Ignacio ... it's not an easy thing to do to keep on moving up each level! And the places that I've been, I'm very grateful for where I come from and where I've been, and where I'm going to be able to go!"
